PRESIDENT TRYING TO GIVE FORD THE SHOALS

Telegram Produced at Senate Hearing Also Says Coolidge Said, "It Is My Hope Mr. Ford Will Not Do or Say Anything to Make It Difficult."

SECRETARY OF WAR EXAMINED BY NORRIS

Weeks Says Ford Got Over Anger Toward Administration After White House Interview Because "He Is Sensible Man."

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Staff Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Chairman Norris of the Senate Agricultural Committee sprang today's leading sensation by reading into the record of the committee's hearing on Muscle Shoals a telegram quoting President Coolidge as having said, on Oct. 12 last, that he was trying to "deliver" Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford and hoped that Ford would do nothing to embarrass him in that effort.

The telegram was sent by James Martin Miller, who was then the representative of the Dearborn Independent, Ford's weekly newspaper, and was addressed to William Cameron or Ernest G. Liebold, in care of that paper, at Dearborn, Mich. Cameron is the editor of the Independent and Liebold is Ford's right-hand man.

The text of the message was: "In the interview had with President Coolidge this morning he said incidentally, 'I am friendly to Mr. Ford, but wish someone would convince him that it is my hope that he will not do or say anything to make it difficult for me to deliver Muscle Shoals to him, which I am trying to do.'"

While the President did not say that sure weeks has been in consultation with President, Norris said in view of Mr. Ford's recent interview in today's papers."

Telegram Subpoenaed.

The telegram was subpoenaed from the Western Union by Norris on the basis of information received by him from Miller. Norris said he had established the fact that the White House records that Miller had a private interview with President at 10:25 a. m. of the day the telegram was sent.

The telegram before the committee was the property of Norris, who is the author of his question to the Secretary of War weeks.

On the following chronology: In September, 1923, Secretary of War Weeks said the Gorgas Steam plant, one of the units of the Muscle Shoals project, to the Alabama Power Company—a course which Norris said, incidentally, met with approval.

On Oct. 12, 1923, Ford issued a statement, bitterly assailing Weeks, charging in effect, that the Secretary of War was actuated by improper motives growing out of his own private business interests.

On the same day Weeks issued a statement in reply to Ford, questioning by Norris. Weeks said that he consulted the president on the matter and that the President approved it.

Ford Calls on President.

On Dec. 5, Ford called on the President. Later in the same day he paid a "social visit" to Weeks.

On Dec. 6, the President, in his annual message to Congress, addressed the sale of Muscle Shoals.

On Dec. 19, Ford issued a statement saying that he would not be a candidate for the presidency but would support Coolidge.

In the examination of Weeks, Norris first brought out that the Secretary of War had said that the sale of the Gorgas plant, which was the first of the major cash-making units of the project, had been approved by the President.

Weeks said that he advised the President on the subject and the President "coincided" with his advice.

Weeks explained that, because he was a cabinet member, he could not indulge in "vituperation" or "discussion with Ford. He said the Ford statement was "a lie," and that he had been a private citizen, he would have

MRS. BRYAN TRIES FAITH HEALING FOR HER INFIRMITIES

Wife of Commoner Receives Personal ministrations From Raymond T. Richey.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HAZLEHURST, Ga., April 28.—Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, wife of the three-time candidate for the presidency, has followed Raymond T. Richey, a faith healer, to this town of 1600 residents to try to be cured of an illness. She was in the audience of several thousand who heard Richey yesterday and received personal ministrations from the hands of the preacher, whom she first heard in Pleasanton, Fla. Mrs. Bryan said to newspaper men: "Medical men have been unable to cure my infirmities. I believe in divine healing and I believe that if my faith is great enough when I mount the altar in the tabernacle I will be healed."

Explaining that both she and her husband, who is expected to meet here this week, are firm believers in divine healing, Mrs. Bryan told of her faith in the power of Christ to heal all ills. "Whether I am healed or not I will still believe in divine healing. If I am not healed at Brother Richey's hands, my faith is not strong enough," she concluded.

FORMER MRS. CARUSO AND NEW HUSBAND SEPARATED

Ingram, Said to Dislike U. S. Goes to England.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 28.—Mrs. E. A. Ingram, formerly Mrs. Enrico Caruso, through her attorney today confirmed reports that she and her husband, Capt. Ingram, an Englishman, had separated. She declared, however, that she would bring neither divorce nor separation suit against her husband.

Mrs. Ingram said she was more concerned with the illness of her little daughter, Gloria Caruso, who has the measles, than she was with her marital troubles.

Her attorney, speaking for her, explained the domestic rift was caused by "little irritations," one of which was the fact that Mrs. Ingram, who is an Englishwoman, had been in the United States for the first week of March and since then Mrs. Ingram has been living with her daughter in a Park avenue apartment house. Mrs. Ingram said she intended to make her permanent home at the Park avenue address and as far as is known Capt. Ingram intends to remain in England.

SENATE DELAYS ACTION ON INCOME TAX SCHEDULES

Simmons Asks That This Section of Revenue Bill Be Passed Over.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 28.—A decision by the Senate on the income tax rates in the revenue bill was postponed today when this section was passed for future discussion on request of Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee.

HARVEY IS EDITOR AGAIN

Return to North American Review Is of Political Significance.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 28.—Col. George Harvey, former Ambassador to Great Britain, has resumed the editorship of the North American Review, it was announced at the publication's office today. His first article, on President Coolidge, will be published in the June issue of the magazine.

On Oct. 12, 1923, Ford issued a statement, bitterly assailing Weeks, charging in effect, that the Secretary of War was actuated by improper motives growing out of his own private business interests.

K. K. K. MEMBER AND WOMAN HELD ON BRIBE CHARGE

Paid Investigator Trapped Trying to Collect $600 From Druggist Accused of Liquor Sale.

SHE, A WITNESS, WAS TO LEAVE TOWN

Flees From Appointment When She Sees Police, but Is Caught at Second Meeting.

A member of the Ku Klux Klan and a paid woman investigator for the Klan were arrested today when arranging to accept a $600 bribe as a "shake down" from an East St. Louis druggist on the promise that the woman would not appear as a witness against the druggist in a liquor law violation case.

A police trap, prepared with cooperation of the intended victim, brought about the arrest of the man, Harry Kendall, 39 years old, of 607 Pennsylvania avenue, shortly after noon today. Kendall and the woman, Mrs. A. V. Kohn, had arranged to meet the druggist, Thomas J. Ganey, of 241 East Broadway, at Broadway and Collinsville avenues. The money was to be turned over to them there.

Escapes In Auto.

However, a policeman not in the scheme walked down the street and saw the couple. "Nothing doing," Mrs. Kohn said, when she perceived the officer. She ran to an automobile at the curb, jumped in and drove away.

Kendall also fled, boarding a street car bound for St. Louis. Officers and a Post-Dispatch reporter gave chase in an automobile, overhauled the car at the eastern approach of Eads Bridge and the arrest was made.

While detectives were searching for Mrs. Kohn, she telephoned Ganey from the Maryland Hotel in St. Louis.

"Bring six hundred to me here," she instructed. "The cops won't boob this up."

Caught at Hotel Here.

Ganey notified St. Louis police and a detective was stationed in the lobby at 1 p. m. Ganey went to the hotel and met Mrs. Kohn. He was about to hand her the money, when the detective stepped up and placed her under arrest.

Kendall made no statement but Mrs. Kohn said, "I guess I was trying to frame Ganey as much as he was trying to frame me."

Kendall visited Ganey's drug store Friday evening, according to the druggist, and offered him "a unit" in the liquor case for $500. Mrs. Kohn had sworn to an affidavit that she had purchased a pint of whisky from Ganey, and this information was placed in the hands of the Federal authorities.

"The woman doesn't like the way things are breaking," Kendall told Ganey, according to the latter. "She wants to get out of town. She is a witness against you and if she blows your case will blow, too. I can fix it up for $500."

Police on Hand at Meeting.

Ganey temporized and then said he'd arrange a meeting and would call that much later. Saturday Kendall called again and Mrs. Kohn telephoned several times. The final conference was arranged for the street corner at noon today. Police were "planted" in the vicinity, but the appearance of policeman not in on the scheme alarmed Mrs. Kohn.

Ganey denies that he ever sold Mrs. Kohn any liquor, saying that the younger brother sometimes gave her whisky which he purchased on his own account from bootleggers.

FRENCH FLYER TO KARACHI

Lieut. Doisy Reached Bassarrah From Baghdad Saturday Night.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, April 28.—Press dispatches report that Lieut. Pelletier Doisy, the French aviator who is flying to the Far East, reached Bassarrah, on the Persian Gulf, from Baghdad Saturday night, and left yesterday for Karachi. The Under Secretary of Air has received nothing direct from the aviator, but thinks he may have arrived at Karachi.

HYDE SIDESTEPS ENDORSEMENT FOR VICE-PRESIDENCY

Governor, on Eve of the State Convention, Comes Out Firmly as Opposed to Instructions.

FINCH CHOSEN TO WIELD THE GAVEL

St. Louis Negro Selected for Place on Delegate-at-Large Slate After Hyde Rejects Babler.

BY CURTIS A. BETTS, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 28.—Gov. Hyde has voted plans of Asa W. Butler, Coolidge manager in Missouri, and others of his supporters, to have the Republican State convention tomorrow instruct the Missouri delegation to the national convention to vote for him for the nomination for the vice presidency.

If these Hyde managers, who will be in control of the convention just as completely as any old-time political bosses controlled the old-time party conventions, obey the Governor's orders, there will be no instructions for Hyde. There will be a strong approval in the platform of Price road, a quarter of a mile north of the Forest Hill Tennis Club. The Country Club is south of Ladue road, in plain view of the new establishment.

Hyde Lives Near.

"Tony" Foley, ex-convict, erstwhile proprietor of gambling houses in Wellston, one of "four notorious law violators" in the county who has been indicted for election frauds, lives on Price road, just north of the "Elite Club," but does not have any connection with that place.

A package of 10 dynamite sticks, tied together with a wire and wrapped in a piece of a Sunday newspaper, with a three-foot burning fuse, was found on the front porch of the Mooney home during the morning. The end of the fuse was found to have blackened, indicating it had been burning but was extinguished in some way. Because of the lay of the land, the house being on a hill, this porch is not used as an entrance ordinarily.

The bomb was found by a negro maid, who went to sweep the porch at 11:30 a. m. Mrs. Mooney and her 2-months-old son, Thomas were at home. Two other children were at school and Mooney was away. A reporter, who had been there earlier in the day investigating the club explosion, was called and carried the dynamite to the lawn.

Mooney has denounced laxity of law enforcement in the county in general, and in his talks made one of his talks at a recent meeting of the Law Enforcement Committee, he was attacked by hoodlums when he addressed the recent county Democratic convention, when there was a violent split between Reed and anti-Reed forces. Moore opposed Reed.

Mooney has been denounced bitterly by machine leaders. He was formerly County Excise Commissioner.

"Elite Club" Investigated.

The first information of the Post-Dispatch which caused the investigation on which yesterday's article about the "Elite Club" was based, came from anonymous letters and telephone calls. In the course of inquiry a reporter talked to numerous neighbors of the place, including Mooney, who, like some others, had no direct knowledge concerning it.

There were two blasts that wrecked the Forest Hill Tennis Club building, one at 2:30 a. m. and one at 4 a. m. Both were loud enough to awaken persons half a mile or more away, and D. J. Bailey, who lives across Ladue road from the place, was thrown out of bed by the first explosion. Damage was estimated at $1400.

The building was a two-story frame structure, about 30x40 feet, with a wide porch around the second floor. The lower floor was used as a locker room and the upper as a clubhouse. One explosion apparently was near the front door of the second floor. Its force broke windows and furniture, tore out the wall and went downward, breaking tops of steel lockers in the locker room, and twisting them. The other explosion, at the base of the porch, damaged the porch and tore a hole two feet

ATTEMPT TO BOMB LAW AND ORDER WORKER'S HOME

Ten Sticks of Dynamite Found on Porch of John E. Mooney's Residence in County.

FOREST HILLS TENNIS CLUB BLOWN UP

Place Is Situated Near Mysterious "Elite" Resort Recently Opened on Price Road.

BY CURTIS A. BETTS, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 28.—An unsuccessful effort was made this morning to blow up the home on Price road of John E. Mooney, attorney and advocate of law enforcement in St. Louis County, following the wreckage of the adjacent Forest Hill Tennis Club, of which Mooney is president, by two dynamite explosions before dawn.

The explosions brought the Forest Hill Tennis Club, which is at Price and Ladue roads, forcibly into the story of the St. Louis Country Club and its new neighbor, the mysterious "Elite Club."

News of the opening of the "Elite Club," which supposedly has a limited (but unannounced) membership, and where lights have been burning all night, was published in the Post-Dispatch yesterday. This place is on Price road, a quarter of a mile north of the Forest Hill Tennis Club. The Country Club is south of Ladue road, in plain view of the new establishment.

POLICEMAN LIES IN WAIT FOR ROBBER AND GETS HIS MAN

Captures Youth Attempting to Hold Up Cleaning Company's Office.

After waiting for two hours behind a partition in a cleaning company's office, on a tip that the place was going to be held up, a mounted policeman, William R. Lange, stepped out at 11 a. m. today and got his man.

"Stick 'em up," a youth had ordered as he came in. "No, you stick 'em up!" the policeman countered.

The robber wheeled, his revolver swinging toward the policeman. Lange fired one shot in the air, and the youth dropped to the floor. "I surrender," he said.

All this before the astonished eyes of two employees of the Lunstras Dyeing and Cleaning Co. branch at 6802 Gravois avenue. They had been told the policeman's purpose in hiding, but they had not believed the holdup man would come around today.

The youth described himself as Louis Mandel, 21 years old, of 1813A California avenue. He has served two years at Boonville on a burglary charge. His revolver held empty cartridges stuffed with tin foil to represent bullets. He explained that he had fixed things this way because he had not wanted to hurt anyone.

"I had a pal; but he backed out on me," Mandel added.

"Yes, I know he did," the policeman retorted. "He called the police and told them you were going to stick up this place."

BODY OF MURDERED GIRL AGED 9, IS FOUND IN WOODS

Hunters Find Mutilated Corpse of Child, Missing Since Last Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 28.—The body of Clementine Cosmo, 9 years old, who had been missing from her East Providence home since last Tuesday, was found buried in a woods in Ashton, R. I. yesterday.

Two hunters, noticing a mound of freshly turned earth, poked it with a stick and uncovered a child's hand. They notified the town sergeant, who discovered the body. The girl had been attacked and strangled.

G. O. P. FUND INQUIRY PROPOSED

Magnus Johnson Wants to Know if Meat Packers Contributed.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 28.—A resolution, calling upon Chairman Adams of the Republican National Committee to state whether meat packers contributed to the Republican campaign fund in 1920 or since, was introduced today by Senator Johnson (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota.

Senator Johnson charged the Department of Agriculture with failure to enforce the meat act, specifying that Secretary Wallace took no action on the Armour-Morris consolidation, "until the merger was consummated." He said he would call up his resolution tomorrow.

CHARGES HUSBAND SOUGHT TO POISON WEALTHY WIFE

New York Prosecutor Says Clarence Baring Gave Her Arsenic Secretly and Fed Her Germs.

YOUNG WOMAN IS FACTOR IN CASE

Manufacturer's Agent, 7 Years Wife's Junior, Reported Friendly With Her Divorced Husband.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 28.—The arrest of Clarence O. Baring, pale, spectacled manufacturer's representative, of White Plains, N. Y., on a charge that he has for months tried to kill his wife, seven years his senior, promised today to develop into the strangest criminal case Westchester County has known.

When arraigned today on a charge of attempted murder, first degree, Baring was held to await the action of the grand jury without bail. He was remanded to jail.

District Attorney Rowland was before the grand jury this morning, presenting the charges against Baring.

Witnesses summoned before the grand jury today included Dr. Henry J. Vier, Mrs. Baring's personal physician; several chemists who analyzed foodstuffs at the Baring home, and the two State troopers who arrested Baring last Friday.

Used an Assumed Name. The nurse who attended Mrs. Baring and a chemist at the Willard Parker Hospital in New York, were reported, according to the authorities, to have told the grand jury that Baring had obtained visits of typhoid, pneumonia and diphtheria germs at the hospital, using the assumed name of Barnes.

Hospital records showed, it was stated, that on several occasions since last November "Barnes" had been given germs on assurance from a Columbia University laboratory director that "Barnes" needed the bacteria for experimental purposes.

New York butcher informed District Attorney Rowland that he was poisoned by his wife before she left him a year ago. The butcher also disclosed, the authorities said, that his wife was friendly with another man who had offices in New York in the building with Baring.

An alleged admission by Baring that he systematically administered deadly typhoid, pneumonia and diphtheria germs to his wife, was read to the grand jury. The statement, it was learned, was made by Baring the night of his arrest. At that time he attributed his strange acts to a carefully planned scheme to disengage himself from another woman with whom he had become infatuated and of whom he had subsequently tired.

Baring denied any intention of killing his wife. According to the statement, he wanted to make her ill, so he could take her to California to recover her health, thus getting away from New York and the intrigue with the "other woman."

The District Attorney told a reporter Baring was charged not only with administering arsenic secretly to his wife, but with feeding her pneumonia and diphtheria germs. The germs, he said, were given to Mrs. Baring between doses of arsenic, the germs being given her in ginger ale, root beer and solid foods.

Illness Aroused Suspicion. Both the poison and germs were given to her, the District Attorney said, during three months. As a result of the doses, of which she had no knowledge, she became seriously ill, and on occasions had to be treated by Dr. Vier of White Plains.

Greece Would Lend U. S. Famous Hermes Statue

Offered as Mark of Esteem and Plan Is to Exhibit Art Relic From One End of Country to Other.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, April 28.—As a mark of esteem of American democracy, Greece, the youngest republic in the world, has offered to lend to the American people one of the most beautiful of statues, bequeathed to her by antiquity—"Hermes carrying the infant Dionysus," the masterpiece of Praxiteles, the famous Greek sculptor of the fifth century.

This announcement is made by Henry Morgenthau, who is on his way home to the United States after having served as unofficial adviser to the Greek Government during the recent political upheaval, and after having successfully launched the League of Nations project to establish 1,000,000 refugees on Greek soil.

The only condition that Greece attaches to the loan of the famous statue, which now reposes in the museum at Olympia, Greece, is that the United States Government will formally request that the statue be shown to the American people. Unlike "Cleopatra's Needle," which is in Central Park, New York City, the Hermes statue will not remain in the United States, but will merely make the journey there to stay for a length of time the United States Government may desire it. Greece, it is said, would not part with this classic for any consideration whatsoever, nor will she permit its exhibition in the United States as a source of revenue for Greece. The idea behind the offer is to the states to the United States is that millions of Americans, particularly the younger generation, may find inspiration in the study of Greek sculpture, of which reproductions exist in all countries.

Morgenthau plans to form a committee on its arrival in New York, and if an official request can be arranged at Washington for the loan of the statue, the committee will make detailed plans for its journey from one end of the United States to the other. It is thought a special car could be built for a national tour, and Morgenthau believes popular subscriptions from universities, art and municipalities would amply cover the cost of transportation.

It is said Greece would prefer that the statue be conveyed across the ocean on board a warship. If the loan is accepted, a distinguished Greek scholar will accompany the statue, and give lectures on the statue, and give lectures on the statue, and give lectures on the statue.

Married After Wife's Divorce. His wife was married several years to a wealthy New York City. He is now out of the country. They were divorced 12 years ago. The following year she was married to Baring. Her first husband, nevertheless, maintained a strong friendship for his former wife and her new husband and was a frequent visitor at their home. After their trip to Europe the Barings bought their new home at 30 Park avenue.

District Attorney Rowland said there was nothing to warrant secrecy. He gave no explanation for calling in State troopers instead of the Sheriff's office or the local police.

In spite of the assertion by Dr. Vier that Mrs. Baring is "seriously ill," she went from her home yesterday to the District Attorney's office to see him. She was accompanied by her husband and a friend.

A strange feature of the day's developments was the discovery that Mrs. Walter E. Stroud of Baltimore, Baring's mother, preferred to stay at a hotel rather than return home. Yesterday Mrs. Stroud conferred with Charles Edward Long, counsel for her son.

Prosecutor Will Waive Immunity. Baring is said to have been the grand jury and his own story, waiting immunity. "His story, strange as it is, makes a very strong defense," said Long, after a talk with Baring. It is said Rowland will ask the grand jury to hold Baring in lieu of $100,000 bail pending grand jury action. He will ask for a continuance of the short affidavit charging "attempt to murder" to the first degree, "carrying a similar penalty," which calls for a penalty of 20 years in prison.

No Statement for Press. Relatives of Mrs. Baring Say. PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 28.—Relatives of Mrs. Baring here said today to the Post-Dispatch correspondent: "We have no statement for the press."

THREE MEN ATTACK JEWELER AND STEAL $150,000 IN GEMS. Hold-Up Occurs in Building in Downtown District of New York City. Also Banned.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 28.—Three men early today bound and gagged Charles Kresney in his office and jewelry manufacturing plant on Nassau street, in the heart of the lower Manhattan skyscraper district, and escaped with diamonds and platinum mounting valued at $150,000. A foreman in the plant found on the floor of the office Kresney and Josephine Seifman, a charwoman. Kresney, who was semiconscious, was taken to a hospital.

One wallet stolen, it was stated, contained diamonds worth $75,000. Platinum mounting, pieces of jewelry and 100 ounces of platinum, valued at $108, an ounce, also were taken. The robbery occurred on the seventh floor of an office building.

Kresney, it was stated, was in the habit of going to the plant early in the morning, and opening three safes, one in the office, one in the plant and one in the home. The charwoman arrived at the Kresney office shortly after 7 o'clock, she told the police, she met three short, swarthy young men, who ordered her to get up her hands, and then bound and gagged her. Kresney had been beaten by the bandits and thrown into a corridor as they hastily gathered up the valuables, she said.

REPUBLICAN ROW IN MONTANA OVER FIGHT ON WHEELER

National Commitment-Elect Who Informed Senator of Attack on Him May Face a Contest.

By the Associated Press. HELENA, Mont., April 28.—Dr. O. M. Landstrum, Republican national committeeman-elect for Montana, his business manager, Charles L. Riefenrath, and S. C. Ford, former Attorney General of Montana, are on their way to Washington to testify before the Senate Borah Committee investigating United States Senator B. K. Wheeler. It is understood that these three men are to be asked about a story to the effect that Blair Coan, representing the Republican National Committee, held out Senator Wheeler's seat in the Senate as a reward to Dr. Landstrum if Landstrum would promise to aid in working up a case against Wheeler which would result in his indictment and conviction.

Dr. Landstrum has been an aspirant for a seat in the United States Senate for many years and was defeated by Senator T. J. Walsh six years ago. He is a close personal friend of Joe Joseph M. Dixon.

The Way the Story Runs. The story concerning which the three Montana politicians are to be questioned at Washington runs as follows: Coan visited Butte, Helena and Great Falls with the idea of getting information about Senator Wheeler. He delivered into the hands of the three men a letter from the Republican National Committee, which had a lead-pipe control on the succession to Jacob L. Rabier as Republican National Committeeman.

One Place Still Open. Some differences of opinion exist among the various self-conscious arbiters of Republican destinies as to which of them should get the one place among seven delegates-at-large that has been left open by the state makers. But when Hyde and Clements and their chiefs have decided who ought to have the place the other aspirants probably will be taken into a hotel room and cudgeled into regularity.

Victor J. Miller, former president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, now touring the State in the interest of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the governorship, has created one glow in the gloom, for Miller has plastered Springfield with his banners. In whatever direction the wayfarer turns he reads in great bold letters, painted on large canvases about "Miller for Governor."

The other two candidates haven't put up any banners. Lieutenant Governor Hiram Lloyd and former Superintendent of Schools Sam A. Baker moved in majestically with their entourages, prepared to participate in the general dignity of the occasion.

One figure always accepted as fully as essential to a Republican State convention as the "key note" is missing this time. He has not played ball with the Hyde factionists and he is in outer darkness, ignored, unwanted, forgotten.

Knife for Dickey. For 37 years, according to his friends, Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City has not missed a Republican State convention until this time. But he "not" be here. Usually in late years he has sat at the council table in the upstairs rooms where the business of the convention was outlined and when he wanted to go as a delegate-at-large he was put on the slate. He usually wanted to go. But this time he will get the news of the convention out of the newspapers. For at Kansas City in 1922, when the late President Harding was being entertained in the course of his trip across the country, the Dickey men made the arrangements. They neglected no opportunity to slight the Governor. New the knife is in the other hand. Republican legends which inhabit the hills of the Ozark counties have promised to pour into Springfield tonight and tomorrow, for demands for tickets have been so great that enough have been given out to fill the meeting place, the Shrine Mosque, twice over.

Nearly all of official Jefferson City and its clerks have moved to Springfield for the time, apparently.

Gov. Hyde, Attorney-General Barrett, State Auditor Hackmann, Secretary of State Becker and State Treasurer Thompson are on the ground. The lone Democratic State official, Superintendent of Schools Lee, had his living quarters in a hotel which had been reserved from foreign governments regarding purchase of surplus war materials. In all, more than 24 governments were cited as having been in the market.

Opposition Within Party. Dr. Landstrum has not yet taken his seat on the Republican National Committee. It is supposed that his political opponents in the Republican party in Montana will contest his seat, charging him with betraying his party. Attorney-General Daugherty, the National Committee and the administration generally.

For several years Dr. Landstrum has been regarded as being in sympathy with Senator Wheeler and the so-called Progressive Republicans in Montana, headed by former United States Senator Joseph A. Dixon.

Some Denies He Found Indictment Justified. Other Denials. Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, April 28.—"I never made any such statement," said Attorney-General Stone when asked about published reports that he had examined the grand jury evidence against Senator Wheeler sent on from Montana and found the indictment justified. He has not yet completed his inspection of the grand jury evidence, the Attorney-General stated.

"I don't know anything about the affair. I am not familiar enough with it to comment upon it," said John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National Committee, when told of the reported offer to Dr. Landstrum.

Blair Coan also denied the reported offer. Coan said he had no conversation with Landstrum relating to Senator Wheeler until after Wheeler had been indicted.

ONLY ONE PLACE UNSETTLED IN G. O. P. SLATE

Missing Member of Delegation to Cleveland Convention to Be Selected by Hyde Faction.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 28.—All the calm of a directors' meeting here in advance of the Republican State convention, which is scheduled to open at 11 a. m. tomorrow, this in contrast to the aggressive hurly-burly with which crowds ebbed and flowed through the lobby of the Colonial Hotel during the two days preceding the Democratic State convention two weeks ago.

The "Old Guard" apparently has about as much chance of making a dent in the armor of the Hyde guard here as Roosevelt's wedge had of piercing the Taft lines at Chicago in 1912.

The Governor and his friends control the Republican State Committee, so the one feeble contention, as it were, is between the Hyde faction and the "New Guard" of the Third Congressional District, who claims the Hyde faction is "steam-rollered" him in the Gage County convention, will get whatever treatment the Governor deems. That likely will be the ax, because Morse "has talked openly and sacrilegiously about the Governor."

Hyde to Be Keynote. Then the Governor himself will make the keynote speech. The Governor is running for Vice President and he wants everything orderly. It likely will be, too, for Dr. E. B. Clements, chairman of the Republican State Committee, has a lead-pipe control on the succession to Jacob L. Rabier as Republican National Committeeman.

Weeks' Attitude on Shoals. "As a matter of fact," Secretary Weeks continued, "I am convinced that the Government can get better terms and a better price than any of the present offers contain."

Senator Kendrick inquired if Weeks didn't believe Government operation of the plant would be preferable to acceptance of any of these offers but Weeks replied that he was not in favor of Government operation.

"Isn't 30 years too long a term for any lease?" Norris asked. "I think so," was the reply. "None of us can appreciate what the deluge he was put on the slate. He usually wanted to go. But this time he will get the news of the convention out of the newspapers. Coolidge Quoted as 'Trying To Deliver' Shoals to Ford answered it in quite a different way. Inasmuch as Ford had made his $5,000,000 offer for the whole of Muscle Shoals, Weeks said that he (Weeks) considered it logical to reduce that amount by the sum received by the Government for the Gorgeas plant.

Coming to the Dec. 2 visit of Ford to Weeks, after Ford had been to the White House, the witness said that the manufacturer told him he had called merely to pay his respects. He said they did not discuss Muscle Shoals on that occasion.

Norris touched on the fact shown by his chronology that the anger of Ford, on Oct. 12, evaporated to such an extent that, on Dec. 19, he came out for Coolidge for the presidency.

"His anger in October," Weeks said, "was at me."

"An Attack on President." "But you must have known," commented Norris, "that when he made that attack on you, it was an attack on President Coolidge and the administration as well as you."

"It was then that Senator Norris, as his climax, read into the record the telegram in which Miller suggested that the President was trying to accommodate Ford."

"I don't believe that the President ever stated he was anxious to turn over Muscle Shoals to Ford or to anybody else," said Secretary Weeks. "Certainly he never made such an expression or intimation to me."

Weeks defended the sale of the Gorgeas plant, which, he said, was made in order to carry out a definite contract of the Government with the Alabama Power Co. He declared that he got out of business 11 years ago, disposing of all holdings whose value might in any way be affected by legislation.

"I am in favor of turning over the Muscle Shoals, if it is turned over," he said. "The bidder who will make the largest return to the Government. I don't think Ford's is the best offer."

Weeks' Attitude on Shoals. "As a matter of fact," Secretary Weeks continued, "I am convinced that the Government can get better terms and a better price than any of the present offers contain."

POLICE BOARD ROW LIKELY TO LEAD TO 'SHOWDOWN' SOON

Statement of Sergt. Boccard Widens Breach Between President Brockman and Commissioner Howard.

ULTIMATUM MAY GO TO GOVERNOR With Vote Standing at Two and Two, Mayor Kiel Holds Balance of Power in Body.

By the Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, April 28.—The Board of Police Commissioners remains divided two and two, while friends of President Brockman are urging him to call for a "showdown" with Gov. Hyde. However, it was indicated today that Brockman will await another deadlock before delivering an ultimatum to the Governor.

In feeling between the Police Board president and Commissioner Brockman, H. Howard, which was deepened by Saturday's stormy meeting, has caused an open break between them. Commissioner William Young sides with Howard and Commissioner Richard Moore with Brockman. Thus there is an almost certain tie in the deadlock. Brockman expects, as soon as an important matter comes before the board.

13 PATRONS TAKEN IN RAID ON NAPLES CAFE

Twelve Spend Several Hours at Police Station After Arrest
by Dry Agents.

Thirteen men, who were arrested in a raid on the Naples Cafe, 422 De Baliviere avenue at 1 a. m. yesterday, are wondering why they were so unlucky as to be present at a time when, according to the raiders, something with more kick than Neapolitan ice cream was in the place.

Federal prohibition agents, assisted by a squad of policemen, made the raid under a Federal search warrant. No one connected with the establishment was arrested, and the 12 who were arrested were customers. Eight of them said they were salesmen and the others described themselves as barber, musician, machinist, laborer and physician.

The physician was given his liberty at once by Federal Agent Goshorn, the police reported, upon his promise to appear with the others before United States Commissioner Atkins today. The others were taken to the Page Boulevard Police Station, where all furnished bond by noon.

What Police Reported.
The police report states that Alexander Mocetta of 7116 Clayton road is proprietor of the Naples. On April 3 Alfredo Stallone, described as the owner, was fined $25 for conducting a noisy and disorderly place.

In the course of the raid, the police reported, these things were found: One-third of a pint of gin under a table used by two of the prisoners, a pint of "liquor" in another table used by four of the prisoners, a glass of "liquor" in the hand of the musician and a bottle of "liquor" placed under their table by his companion, the physician.

At the time Stallone was fined because of the disturbances at the Naples there was testimony that the place was like a church till midnight and resembled a madhouse from then till 5 a. m. Stallone explained that his patrons came after the theater, danced till 1 a. m. and "had something to eat" after that. As for what they might do after they stepped into the street, he felt he was not responsible. One of the police sergeants in the raid was the same fellow who sat in front of the Naples nearly every night during March and made two unsuccessful raids there.

LOSS IN OLIVE STREET GARAGE FIRE PLACED AT $75,000

Greatest Damage From Destruction of About 65 New Ford Autos Stored on Second Floor.

A general alarm fire, which broke out at 1:30 a. m. yesterday in the Black and White Cab Co. garage, 2952 Olive street, caused damage estimated at $75,000, of which $25,000 was for about 65 new Ford automobiles stored on the second floor. The Fords, which were insured, were the property of the Johnson Motor Car Co. Emmett Donovan, 4040 Page boulevard, the taxicab dispatcher, told police he believed defective wiring caused the fire, as the lights flickered on and off a short time before he discovered the rear of the garage in flames.

The fire, which attracted hundreds of persons, spread to the second floor, and a short time later the rear portion of the flooring and the back wall collapsed. No one was hurt. Firemen had the flames under control by 2 o'clock.

Only one taxicab was on the lower floor garage. It was destroyed. Of the Fords, about half were coupes, the remainder being touring cars, runabouts and trucks. The buildings is owned by Mrs. Nellie Wohl of New York.

MONTHS SOUGHT 'EASY CASH FROM SPOONERS'

Confessions Involve Five Young Men in Series of Holdups in Past 6 Weeks.

"Easy money from spooners" was what five youths had in mind when they talked it over Friday night. They had their mother's automobile and two had pistols, so with this equipment they set out. One couple robbed Forest Park and another on a highway road netted them about $22 and an automobile. The automobile brought about their undoing.

Confessions have been elicited from two of the five involving them in five holdups in the past six weeks. The stolen car was recognized by the St. Louis police. He impounded the car and ordered Ernest Kemper, 28, 2719 Wisconsin avenue; Albert Browner, 18, 2641 Washington avenue; Clifford Langenberger, 19, 3661 South Broadway; Eugene Leiber, 22, 2838 Madison avenue. Kemper and Leiber have confessed.

Suspect Told by Youth.
The group assembled at Meisner's home and discussed the possibility of "easy money from spooners" according to their story. Leiber had his mother's machine, and Kemper and Leiber had pistols, so they drove to Forest Park where on Valley Drive they robbed George Blum Jr., of 2195 Moffitt avenue, and Miss Emma Birchler, 2877 San Francisco avenue, in Blum's auto. Kemper said that he, Leiber and Langenberger got in the car, with Blum, drove to Maplewood, where they ordered the occupants out. They then drove to Meisner's home, where the party broke up, except for Kemper and Meisner, who set out in Blum's machine to "get another couple."

Watson and Scanlan, avenue they held up Richard Gradley, 1350 Jerome avenue, and Miss Gladys Smith, a nurse at City Sanitarium.

Admit Bus Holdup.

Kemper and Meisner admitted the holdup of a Peoples' motor bus on Carondelet Park March 11 when $24 was taken, and again on March 11, when $21 was taken. They also admitted the circumstances of the holdup of a couple seated in an automobile on Buckley road, in St. Louis County. They got $3, a watch and the machine, which Kemper said he later abandoned at St. Clair, Mo.

The police impounded the Meisner automobile and seized a pistol each at the homes of Langenberger and Leiber. Highway robbery warrants will be sought.

JAPANESE DIPLOMAT DEAD

Baron Ijima, Recent Foreign Minister, Dies Suddenly in Tokio. Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1934.)

TOKIO, April 23.—Baron Hikoichi Ijima, Foreign Minister in the Yamamoto Cabinet, is dead, following a complicated illness. He was born in 1881 at Kagoshima, and saw long diplomatic service, including posts in London, Vienna and Peking. He was Ambassador to Rome from 1916 until 1920, and was a delegate to the peace conference in 1919. Baron Ijima was created a Baron in 1920. He resigned the govern-mentship of the Kwantung leased territory to accept a portfolio in the Yamamoto Cabinet, and retired following the resignation of the Cabinet. His death was sudden and resulted from cancer of the stomach.

DIAZ QUILTS CABINET POST

Italian Commander in World War Resigns Because of Ill Health. By the Associated Press. ROME, April 23.—Gen. Armando Diaz has resigned his post as Minister of War for reasons of health. It was announced today. He has been scheduled by Gen. Antonio di Giorgio. Gen. Diaz was Commander-in-Chief of the Italian armies in the World War.

ASSESSMENTS OF TEN COUNTY MEN REDUCED $34,124

Residents of Country Club Community Heard by Equalization Board on Arbitrary Increases.

Ten residents of the vicinity of the St. Louis Country Club appeared before the St. Louis County Board of Equalization in person or by representative today and obtained reductions in their personal tax assessments totaling $34,124. They were among the group of 20 individuals whose personal taxes with those of the Country Club had been raised, an aggregate of $58,800 by the board on April 15, without evidence or a hearing. All those affected then were directed to show cause today why the increases should not be effective. Only the eight responded, but all of them obtained reductions, two of which were to the original figures.

Attitude of Board Changed. The attitude of the board members who were present today was in contrast with the attitude on the day the increases were ordered, when the taxpayers concerned were not present. That day the equalizers made remarks about "how they all have diamonds" and the like, but today some of them were cordial in their agreement with complainants that the increases had been too much. Those who did not appeal today had no further opportunity.

The first appeal was by Samuel Haas, whose assessment had been increased from $890 to $5000. He said he had nothing much in the way of personal property but some old furniture, so the board cut his figure to $2000. John A. Scudder, who lives on the Country Club grounds, said an increase from $1800 to $5000 was too much for him, so they gave him a cut to $3000. He said the same thing about an increase from $4920 to $10,000 for his father, James W. Scudder, whose "expensive automobile," he said, was a 1916 model. The board put the elder Scudder's assessment back to the original figure.

Original Figures Restored. L. W. Childress, president of the Columbia Terminals Co., also got a reduction to his original assessment, from $8000 to $4330. Assessor F. P. Kasper of Maplewood, a member of the board, inquired: "Haven't you got any jewels?" Childress answered: "I'll wager we have fewer jewels than any family in the county. My wife has a few, but I haven't bought her any since we were married." A lawyer representing H. J. Pettengill, chairman of the board of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., said that his client's personal property comprised largely "a lot of old furniture, a watch and some cuff links." His original assessment of $2410 had been increased to $3000, but a cut was ordered to $2610.

H. McK. Jones, whose assessment had been increased from $1370 to $5000, said he thought $2500 or $2000 would be fair, so the board fixed his assessment at $3000.

Reductions for the Calhouns.

An attorney representing Mr. and Mrs. David R. Calhoun got cuts from $5000 to $4000 for Calhoun and from $5000 to $4000 for Mrs. Calhoun. The original figures were, respectively, $2400 and $3750. The lawyer said Calhoun's property comprised chiefly stock in the Glynn Walker Dry Goods Co., of which he is president, and bank stock. There was a discussion of the value of an oil portrait of Mrs. Calhoun. Sam D. Capen of the Country Club grounds, whose return of $3170 had been increased to $5000, got a reduction to $5000. Peyton T. Carr, who made a return of $550, which was increased to $2000, said his property wouldn't inventory at that much, and obtained a cut to $3000. His furniture, he averred, was "old stuff from his wife's grandmother." A board member said that might make it more valuable than new furniture, an antique.

Surely a man's suit is his closest associate; but it is hard to be on friendly terms with even an associate unless he, in turn, is friendly.

You'll like a custom-tailored suit because it is fashioned after your own desires, even to taking on some of your whims if you say so—a friend after your own heart.

Make Toilet Waters Undrinkable.
COPENHAGEN, April 22.—In order to prevent perfumes, hair washes and other toilet waters from being consumed as alcoholic drink in Iceland, the Government has put a bill before the Althing which would make the manufacturers add bitter aloes to the liquids before importation into Iceland. Prohibition prevails in Iceland.

THOUSANDS PAY TRIBUTE TO LATE TAMMANY CHIEF

Workers From East Side
Join Wealthy and Socially Prominent at Bier of Charles F. Murphy.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 22.—City and State today mourned Charles F. Murphy and honored him in death as few have been honored in the metropolis in living memory.

From the teeming East Side, from the homes of the wealthy, from every social station, from the manifold walks of life of the greatest city in the world, there came to the bier of the Tammany chieftain in his modest East Seventeenth street home and to great St. Patrick's Cathedral in Fifth avenue, men and women united in their grief.

Murphy had been a man of the people and had remained an East Sider in his heart, even unto the pinnacle of his power, and it was his people of the East Side who by the thousands, expressed their great grief today. Among them were laborers with whom he had worked, women and children to whom he had been a friend in need, and the men whom he had helped rise to power in the city and State.

Streets Near Home Crowded.
Early this morning crowds of workers hurrying through East side streets stopped and turned their steps to East Seventeenth street, there to pay their last respects to their friend and leader. The streets near the unpretentious home soon after daybreak were crowded as they seldom have been with a solemn, respectful multitude.

Before the house, $5 policemen kept the crowd in orderly lines as the men and women silently filed into the house and passed the mahogany coffin.

Hundreds of poorly-dressed shop girls, clerks, laborers carrying their lunches, knelt in silent prayer and resumed their way. Stuyvesant Square Park was filled to capacity and First and Second avenues were crowded.

At 9:30 the doors of the Murphy home were closed to all but relatives and intimate friends and an hour later the casket was borne down the brownstone steps on the shoulders of the pallbearers.

Fifth Avenue Hushed.
The police detachment came to a military salute, while onlookers heaved their heads. Honorary pallbearers were Gov. Smith, Mayor Hylan, Gov. Sizer of New Jersey, Mayor Hague of Jersey City, Senator Copeland and high officials of the State, city and army.

The crowd parted. The silence was broken only by heavy shuffling of thousands of feet and the clicking of cameras.

At Second avenue and Twenty-third street, the column halted to allow the mourners to fall in at the rear. The sidewalks were lined several persons deep. Throughout the length of the avenue to Twenty-third, along that thoroughfare and up Fifth avenue to the Cathedral traffic had been suspended.

Fifth Avenue was hushed. Scores of thousands stood, heads bared, as the procession passed. At Forty-fifth street, Gov. Smith, his staff and the pallbearers left their motor cars and fell in on foot behind the hearse.

Delegation in Military Array.
At the entrances to cross streets, south of the Cathedral, delegations from political societies and organizations affiliated with Tammany Hall stood in military array.

In and around the Cathedral, police estimated 12,000 persons had gathered, 8000 occupying every available inch of space in the majestic gothic structure. As the solemn requiem mass was held inside, the crowds outside bowed their heads in prayer.

A thousand policemen lined the route of the cortege to Calvary Cemetery, in Queens.

WOOD LOSER AT RACE TRACK

Governor-General's Son Said to Have Dropped $12,000 in France.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Publishing Co., Inc., New York.

and the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, April 22.—Osborn C. Wood, son of Governor-General

Wood of the Philippines, has been less lucky at the race track than in the stock market. After a few days under the tutelage of one of the leading "touts," Wood has left a loser. It is reported, to the extent of about $12,000. The tout, one Frank Cherokee, also known as "Cherokee Joe," because he is part Indian, picked out Wood as a likely prospect. "Cherokee" is no ordinary tout. His dress is the ultimate. Adorned with high silk hat and monocle, he frequents the most fashionable resorts and hotels.

"Cherokee" met the ex-army officer at the Longchamps course. Wood, who stayed for three weeks at the Hotel Crillon, departed Friday for Lausanne.

HUSBAND DEFENDS NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

Sanderson Says Inquiry Shows Charges Made by Clam Digger's Wife Are Not True.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 28.—Charges made last January by Mrs. Ellsworth Bassett of Madison, Conn., that her husband's affections had been alienated by Nina Wilcox Putnam, author, who employed him as business agent, were denied in a statement yesterday by Robert Sanderson, Miss Putnam's husband. "Through my lawyers, Lee, Smith, Aron & Wise, I have investigated the Bassett charges made against my wife," the statement declares, "and it is only fair to her for me to state publicly that I have found them to be absolutely without foundation in fact."

Warren I. Lee, counsel for Sanderson, declined to reveal any details of his firm's "investigation." He said no divorce action was pending, but refused to say whether the author and her husband had become reconciled. She sued for divorce at Providence, R. I., but withdrew the action after it had been called to the attention of a grand jury she did not meet the State's requirement of three years' residence. Sanderson, a district superintendent of the New York Telephone Co., lives in the Hotel Brevoort. His wife is in Florida. Bassett, a handsome clam digger of Madison, who became the writer's chauffeur and then business agent, left her service after publication of his wife's charges, and was replaced by a woman. He returned to Madison, but failed in his efforts to reconcile his wife.

Disinfection for Train Passengers.
By the Associated Press. PHOENIX, Ariz., April 28.—State health officials of Arizona today clamped down rigid restrictions upon all railroad passenger traffic from California, to protect Arizona from the foot-and-mouth disease. Under the regulations, all passengers entering from California will be allowed to carry only hand baggage, which will be inspected, fumigated and tagged before being permitted to leave stations.

Family of 11 Destitute.
Police are seeking aid for John Gonzalez, 49 years old, his wife and their nine children who were found in one room at 1400 North Eleventh street yesterday. The youngest child is 6 months old and the family over Sunday.

HOW IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD RUINS A WOMAN'S HEALTH

AND MAY MAKE HER WRINKLED, AGED AND CAREWORN, GIVING HER FACE A PALE, HAGGARD, SICKLY APPEARANCE

For want of iron you may practically be an old woman at 30. Iron is the life-giving element and "all faded out." You may be in such a highly nervous irritable state that you "go all to pieces" on the slightest provocation, while at 30 or so with good health and plenty of iron in your blood, you may still be young in feeling and as attractive and full of life as in the dawn of your teenage.

It is not always the youngest woman that is suffering from iron deficiency. It is often the woman who has lost her vitality and energy through the loss of blood in the bearing of children, or through the loss of blood in the bearing of children, or through the loss of blood in the bearing of children.

It is said that about one person in three in America today suffers more or less from malnutrition—lack of nourishment, which is caused not by lack of food, but in many cases, by lack of sufficient iron in the blood to enable you to get the strength and nourishment out of your food.

Indoor life, over-eating and modern methods of cooking are sapping the iron from the blood of hundreds of thousands of women. Our forefathers, to whom history refers as a nation of red-blooded Americans, ate the bones of grain and the skins and peels of vegetables and other coarse foods rich in strength-giving organic iron, which the modern woman does not get.

To make up for the great loss of iron caused by the life woman is compelled to lead she should eat more such iron-containing vegetables and fruits as spinach and baked apples and take organic iron like Nuxated Iron from time to time to help enrich her blood and revitalize her worn-out, exhausted nerves.

Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such a highly condensed form that one dose of it is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating half a quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or six dozens apples. It's like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat.

Over 1,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It often increases the bodily and mental vigor, strength and endurance of weak, nervous, "run-down" folks in two weeks' time. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Bureau of statistics. Nuxated Iron comes in tablets only—never in liquid form. Always look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letter N on every tablet.

Irish Expect American Tourists.
DUBLIN, April 26.—A. C. Conboy, vice president of the Irish Tourist Association, who has been in the United States organizing means of improving the comfort of travelers to and in Ireland, has cabled that the travel prospects from America to Ireland are this year good. He urges hotels and others here to speed up the issue of tariffs and particulars of accommodation.

take precautions

With colds and influenza all too common just now, it pays to take regular preventive measures against them. Spray your nose and throat night and morning with Zonite (directions on the bottle). Prevention is always easier, better and less expensive than a cure. Zonite—the remarkable, new antiseptic—has the unique power of destroying germs without harming the delicate tissues that germs thrive on. It is several times as powerful as pure carbolic acid—yet non-irritating and absolutely non-poisonous. At your druggist.

Zonite KILLS GERMS

Keep your mouth cleansed of germs and decaying matter with Pasteurine, the delightful antiseptic. At your druggist.

Is Your Case Worse Than This?

I have suffered for twelve years with stomach trouble, have tried every thing I ever heard of, but never got any relief till I tried DIETONE.
An X-ray examination showed a bad twisted stomach and a very small stomach. Before I tried Dietone I could not eat solid food whatever, and was forced to live on a diet of soups and broths. Now I eat whatever I want and have gained the weight I lost. I am now as healthy as a horse. I believe that Dietone is the greatest blessing that has been sent to mankind since the beginning of time.

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramping or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. The whole family can take them.

115 MEN TRAPPED IN BURNING MINE AFTER EXPLOSION

Four Bodies Found and Experts Hold Out Little Hope for Others Entombed in West Virginia.

ROCK AND EARTH BLOCK DRIFT MOUTH

Rescuers Gain Access to Wrecked Underground Passageways by Air Shafts; After - Damp a Menace.

By the Associated Press.
WHEELING, W. Va., April 28.—One hundred and fifteen miners were believed to have been lost today in an explosion and fire in the Benwood Mill mine of the Wheeling Steel Corporation at Benwood, a few miles down the Ohio River from here.
After struggling for more than six hours to overcome falls of rock and earth in the drift mouth of the mine, rescuers gained access to the wrecked underground passageways by way of air shafts. Four bodies, all burned, were located within a few minutes. Two of the miners were alive when found but they expired before they could be taken to the surface.

Experts of the United States Bureau of Mines, sent in a rescue car from Pittsburgh, held little hope for any of the entombed men. Those who escaped the explosion and fire, they said, could not hope to win out against the deadly after-damp.

RABBI HARRISON OFFICIATES AT FUNERAL OF CHRISTIAN

Pastor Responds to Request of Girl Who Administered His Sermons and Oratory.
Rabbi Leon Harrison, pastor of Temple Israel, officiated at the funeral of a Christian yesterday for the first time in his 35 years in the ministry. It was the funeral of Miss Laura Howard, 24 years old, 2824A Louisiana avenue, who died Thursday of tuberculosis after being ill a year.

Miss Howard and her parents, both Protestants, had frequently attended lectures at Temple Israel, as do many who are not members of the congregation. The girl greatly admired Rabbi Harrison and had requested that he conduct the funeral. Her parents joined in the request. Dr. Harrison and the Howards were not personally acquainted.

TWO SHOT IN LIQUOR FIGHT

Deputy Sheriff and Alleged Bootlegger Wounded at Blodgett (Mo.).
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BLDGGETT, Mo., April 28.—In a fight between Deputy Sheriff Scott Morrow and Blodgett bootleggers at Blodgett, Saturday night, Blodgett was wounded to the foot and a man named Strain was shot through the lungs. P. M. Britt, a farmer and delegate to the Republican State Convention at Springfield, was in the car with Strain. Both were taken to Ben ton jail, where they were later released on bond.

Britt says he had no connection with Strain, who is said to have been selling whisky, but was a victim of circumstances in that he was in Strain's car conversing with him when officers approached.
Hoover Denies Fishing Monopoly.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 28.—A renewal of charges made a year ago that the Commerce Department had permitted valuable fishing rights in Alaska to fall into the hands of a monopoly brought from Secretary Hoover a formal statement outlining the department's interest in the question and declaring published attacks were being made in an effort to defeat pending legislation for "saving the industry." "The suggestion that the Department of Commerce has aided or fostered any special interest or any monopoly in fishing in Alaska waters is absurd," Secretary Hoover said.

ZINC INDUSTRY CHIEFS HERE FOR CONVENTION

Ways of Increasing Use of the Metal Is One of Topics Under Discussion.

When the sixth annual convention of the American Zinc Institute opened at Hotel Chase today for a two-day gathering, there were present from various parts of the country and abroad, leaders in the industry in all its phases—including mining, smelting and distribution of the various forms of the finished product.

The morning program included an address by the president of the institute, Frank C. Wallower of Joplin, Mo.; an address of welcome by Mayor Kiel, a response by Sidney H. Davis, president, Tri-State (Mo-Kan) Zinc Association of the institute, and a survey of world conditions in the zinc industry by A. J. M. Sharpe, an economist of London.

Afternoon Program. The afternoon program was given over to one of the main purposes of the organization—ways and means of increasing the use of zinc. These topics included the use of zinc as a roofing material; from a job salvager's viewpoint, the relation of zinc coating to galvanized sheets, and a report of the Publicity Committee, which for several years has conducted a continuous advertising campaign in newspapers, magazines and trade journals.

Coincident with the opening of the convention, announcement was made by the secretary, Stephen S. Tuttle of New York City, of the formation of a non-ferrous metal and mineral division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce by Secretary of Commerce Hoover. This is the outgrowth of the creation of a non-ferrous metals bureau set up in the department in 1922, and functioning as a part of the iron and steel division.

Work of New Division. By close co-operation with the several non-ferrous metal and non-metallic mineral industries, the new minerals division, it is announced, will endeavor to anticipate the requirements of the various industries for statistical and competitive market information, and by so doing it will strive to have available at all times up-to-minute data of interest to the various industries.

As chief of the new division, the appointment of James A. Stader, formerly of Joplin, the present chief of the mineral section, was announced. Stader was a captain of artillery in the A. E. F., and after the armistice served with an American industrial commission for the rehabilitation of Central European industries and as technical adviser to Gen. Allen at meetings of the Supreme Council. He is a civil engineer and chemist and has seen service also in Mexico and the Philippines.

SULLY ADVISES PLANTERS TO CURTAIL COTTON ACREAGE

Make English Spinners Fight for Short Crops, He Urges.

Daniel J. Sully, heralded as "Cotton King" 20 years ago, when he fought English capital for control of the cotton market, when in St. Louis yesterday advised Southern planters to decrease their acreage and increase quality to be assured good prices.

"The supply even now is less than the demand, and if it is further curtailed so that spinners in England and elsewhere must fight for short crops, then the planter will come into his own," Sully said. He had been here for several days on business, but left last night for Chicago. He now lives at Los Angeles.

Sully was defeated in his efforts to force England to pay greatly increased prices for cotton but his attempted corner, seeking to aid the planters, won him the admiration of planters.

Help Nature Fight Acidosis

Milk of Magnesia now combined with Mineral Oil to conquer indigestion and constipation.

Most of us eat too much and exercise too little. The result is constipation and acidosis (sour stomach), twin foes of health, the cause of 75% of all sickness. If you wake up in the morning with a dark brown taste in your mouth, if your stomach is easily upset, if you are troubled with gas, have bad breath, don't let things go. You have acidosis which unless checked, may develop into serious sickness.

Do two things if you would be free from acidosis: 1—Neutralize excess acids in the stomach; 2—Rid the body regularly of digestive waste. The finest acid known to science is milk of magnesia and the best known agent for conquering constipation is pure mineral oil. Now science combines these two great aids to health in one effective emulsion, Haley's Magnesia-Oil. Stop at your druggist's today and get a bottle of this wonderful new agent for correcting acidosis and constipation. Wonderfully pleasant to take; no bad after effects. And Haley's does not form a habit. It can be given without hesitation to young or old. Trial size bottle 35c; economical family size $1.00. The Haley-M-O Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

Film—the robber of all tooth beauty. Learn how millions now combat it

That cloudy coat on teeth is film. At first the film is viscous—you can feel it now.

That film is clinging. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So, in old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth are cloudy.

Film is unclear

Film is unclear. When it lingers on or between the teeth it threatens constant damage.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

These film-caused troubles became almost universal. They were constantly increasing. So dental investigators started out to find ways to fight film.

Two methods found

In this research two methods were discovered. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods effective, by many careful tests. A new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it. The use fast spread the world over. Now careful people of some 50 nations have adopted this modern tooth paste.

Two other needs discovered

Two other essentials were revealed by research. So

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

It is Free
This ten-day test.
Simply send coupon.

Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

Every use of Pepsodent brings these combined effects. Together they bring a new conception of what clean teeth mean. You will be amazed and delighted.

You see the results at once

The Pepsodent results are quick and apparent. Some are seen and felt at once. You can have no doubt about them.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Compare this new way with the old. Then you will know what method should be used by you and yours. Cut out coupon now.

AUTO KILLS MAN; DRIVER SPED ON, WITNESS ASSERTS

Francis O'Brien, 40, Suffers Broken Neck When Struck While Crossing the Street.

MOTORIST TAKES HIM TO HOSPITAL

Gus Schluter, 25, Held Pending Inquest After He Describes Accident on Natural Bridge Avenue.

Francis O'Brien, 40 years old, a wall paper cleaner, of 4539 McMillan avenue, was killed at 11:20 o'clock last night when run down by an automobile in front of 5615 Natural Bridge avenue. His neck was broken and his skull fractured.

Gus Schluter, 25, of 4610 Edge-wood avenue, Pine Lawn, who rushed O'Brien to the city hospital, told police a black touring car hit O'Brien and sped on without stopping.

Schluter said he was going west in his own automobile when the black touring car cut around him from the rear, hit O'Brien as the latter was crossing the street from north to south, and hurled the pedestrian into the path of Schluter's car. In swerving to avoid O'Brien, Schluter said he was unable to observe the other machine closely, but believes it was a Cadillac.

The police, unable to find any other witnesses, held Schluter pending the inquest.

Three Persons Hurt When Auto Overturns After Collision.

Three persons were hurt, two seriously, when the automobile of William Port of 2729 California was overturned on St. Charles road near Wellston at 4:30 p. m. yesterday in a collision with another machine. The driver of the second car drove hurriedly away after the accident.

Port's wife, Ella, 38, suffered fractures of the right collarbone and shoulder blade and of several ribs. The right arm of their son, Robert, 7, was so severely crushed it had to be amputated. A portion of the boy's nose was also torn away. Mrs. Mamie Clifton, 32, of 11924 South Jefferson avenue, one of three other occupants in the car, suffered a sprained foot and elbow. Mrs. William Suschanka of Allen avenue was cut by wind-shield glass when her husband's machine collided with another automobile at Lafayette and Jefferson avenues.

HEARSE AFIRE IN KLAN FUNERAL

Hundreds in Cortege for Man Who Died After Riot.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 23.—Clad in robes and hoods, with their masks rolled back, hundreds of Ku Klux Klansmen of the Western Pennsylvania region yesterday participated in funeral services for O. H. Poorbaugh, who died shortly after he was removed from the county jail to a hospital. Poorbaugh was one of 26 alleged klansmen who were arrested and held on murder and riot charges in connection with the fight between visiting klansmen and villagers at Lilly, near here, April 5.

About midway between the Poorbaugh home and the church, the motor of the hearse caught fire and the funeral procession was delayed until another hearse was obtained. Hundreds of persons stood on the sidewalks as the procession passed.

Fatality in $1,000,000 Fire.

LOWELL, Mass., April 23.—One fireman was killed, eight were injured and a property loss of approximately $1,000,000 was caused when a fire, yesterday, swept through five buildings here, destroying two of the city's largest office buildings, a theater, the Knights of Columbus Building and a large garage.

MELLON REPORT
GIVES ENGRAVING
OFFICE CLEAN BILL

Treasury Head Says
Charges Resulting in Wholesale Dismissals by Harding Were Baseless.

"UTTERLY FALSE," HE TELLS PRESIDENT

Department of Justice Attorney Accused of Distortion and Perversion in His Allegations.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 28.—Secretary Mellon advised President Harding last night that the Treasury had completed its inquiry into charges of irregularities in the Bureau of Engraving and had found them baseless. The charges, made by Charles B. Brewer, Department of Justice attorney, and which were accompanied by wholesale dismissals in the bureau by President Harding, contained no element of fact, Mellon asserted. He informed the Chief Executive that he was enabled as a result of the investigation to confirm the integrity of the Government's securities.

Contained in the report to the President, a document of magnitude size, were specific replies to every assertion made by Brewer in his repeated assaults on the Treasury and, by these, Secretary Mellon said, "the utter falsity" of every charge was established. In addition, the Treasury chief vigorously assailed Brewer personally, saying in concluding the report:
"His report indicates a complete avoidance of fairness and the adoption of artful and deceptive methods. Where the facts are susceptible of distortion, Mr.
Brewer resorts to distortion; where the omission of details will pervert a situation, Mr. Brewer resorts to omission; where misstatement of facts will strengthen his charges, Mr. Brewer resorts to misstatement; where irrelevance will tend to obscure the facts, Mr.
Brewer resorts to irrelevance; and where neither distortion, omission, misstatement, nor irrelevance will serve his purpose, Mr. Brewer resorts to insinuation and innuendo."

Exhaustive Investigation.
"Before concluding I am taking this opportunity to assure you that the most exhaustive investigation has been made by the Treasury to establish Mr. Brewer's charges to be absolutely without foundation. There has been no duplication or overstatement of the public debt, but, on the other hand, by investigating the Brewer charges and establishing the utter falsity thereof, the Treasury is enabled unreservedly to confirm the integrity both of the Government's obligations and of those branches of the Treasury service which have been engaged in the handling of public debt securities."

Mellon assured the President
there had been no "fraud or carelessness on the part of officials or employees responsible for the reserved securities." He said Brewer called attention to losses "during a period of seven years," and added that the total of these was $12,140, and "were the result of thefts committed by subordinate clerks or messengers in the Treasury."

"It has been pointed out," the report continued, "that the loss of $12,140 over a period of seven years, during which time over $300,000,000.00 in securities were handled by thousands of employes, is by no means a reflection upon the officials or employees of the Treasury responsible for the safety of the reserved securities nor upon the Treasury's system of controls and audits. Incidentally, the thefts of securities illustrate the danger of retaining indefinitely and not disposing of the dormant stocks of reserved securities."

"There have been instances of inadequate serial numbers on Liberty bonds," the report said, "but no evidence whatever has been found of any duplicate leaves or fraudulent issues of Liberty bonds."
Other Government securities, and there is absolutely nothing to support the charge that there has been any attempt to defraud the United States.

Street Cars vs. Buses.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

CONCERNING the relative present availability of electric railways and motor busses for urban and interurban service, it may be said that:

The Manchester (England) City Council, which is charged with control of the municipally-owned transportation, both electric and gasoline, system, recently concluded an exhaustive survey of the relative merits of electric street cars and gasoline busses as passenger carriers in large cities, with a view to improvement of the municipally-owned transportation system in Manchester.

The council declared that it was open minded and desired to adopt any means of urban transit economical, safe and comfortable, and explained that its adoption of the electric street car as the best means of carrying passengers in dense traffic was dictated only "by an assured knowledge that, at the present time, no other instrument is available that can supersede it on essential merits."

The Manchester Council relegated the gasoline motor bus "to the limbo of obsolescence," declaring it to be "useful only between country districts and street car termini, as a 'feeder' to the street car system."

Henry Mattison, director of the municipally owned street car system, testified that gasoline busses cannot meet the necessities of urban passenger traffic for the following reasons:

Buses can carry but 60 passengers, street cars can carry 92 passengers (in Manchester).

Street cars provide covering for 92 passengers, bus for 22. Impracticable to put covers on top deck busses.

Buses cannot operate with facility of street cars in fog or heavy snow.

Buses skid, are poorly lighted, and not so comfortable as street cars.

Upper deck of bus being uncovered, requires three and one-half busses to accommodate the same number of passengers accommodated by street cars in bad weather.

Buses cannot take care of the "peak load" during early morning and evening rush hours. A street car can give double the service that a bus can give.

Street cars can carry passengers longer distances, for less fare, than busses can carry them.

Of course, the motor bus did not get a fair trial in Toledo, Des Moines, Saginaw, Akron and other cities, where it was commended to take the place vacated overnight, by electric railways, but enough was learned to indicate that, at present, constructed, the motor bus, especially in periods of storm, snow, ice, etc., is wholly inadequate to substitute for the electric car operated on steel tracks.

ENGINEER.

The New Rock Island Station.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

CRITICISMS of the new Rock Island station near De Baliviere avenue indicate the same impudent snobbery which characterized the howl against the busses. There are many real Americans who choose to ride on street cars, busses and railway trains. Some of them believe that the new station is not an eyesore like the garages and filling stations, and it certainly is an improvement over the structure which it replaced. Let us put a stop to these would-be exclusives and recognize the rights of the plain people who pay their way. A. B. C.

Finance Department Too Slow.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

KINDLY favor me with space in your "Letters From the People" column in order to lodge criticism of the way things are being handled by the Finance Department of the State of Missouri.

Many have been the times they have been called on to liquidate financial wrecks. The Night and Day affairs speak for themselves. But now must the United Home Builders run the same deplorable course that reaps only financial harvest to a horde of attorneys who dance in favor before the Finance Department while the poor contract holders—the suckers who were unfortunately caught in the meshes of these gullible schemes—stand by like the beggar at the table of Dives, and hungrily grab the few crumbs which may fall from this legal feasting board.

Why doesn't Mr. Millspaugh liquidate immediately with the $100,000 bond which was put up with the department as security for the Missouri contract-holders? There is no justifiable excuse for the intolerable delay—they are only "stalls" for time enough to sweeten the legal fees. And when information is sought the inquirer is only passed around from one vulture to the other, while the remains of the United Home Builders are gradually cleared to the bone.

It is time action was taken. And if the department cannot speed up matters, let them place it in the hands of someone who can. (Signed) DEFECTED.

THE LERNER CASE.

The case of Mrs. Anna Kipness Lerner, wife of a native-born American citizen who was also a soldier in the World War, and herself a resident of the United States from the age of 4 to 18, would be food for laughter if it were not such a serious reflection upon the administration in Washington. Mrs. Lerner went to Russia as a stenographer for the American Kuzbas colony. While there she married an American ex-service man, but under the new law which provides that a wife's nationality does not follow that of her husband, she was debarred from this country not only on the ground that she was an alien, but that she was a Communist and a dangerous character.

In a belated letter, which was originally sent as a cablegram, but detained, Mrs. Lerner writes that she is neither a Socialist nor a Communist, but a member of a labor union, and while working for a living served as a member of the Prison Comforts Club of Philadelphia and worked in conjunction with the committee of the Society of Friends in behalf of political prisoners.

A number of Americans, some of them highly distinguished public men, worked in behalf of the political prisoners; President Harding pardoned some of these prisoners, and President Coolidge released the others. That surely cannot be regarded as a crime or as treasonable.

Why should it be necessary for Mrs. Lerner to declare that she is neither a Socialist nor a Communist? It is not a crime to belong to either of these parties, any more than to belong to the Republican or Democratic party. If the administration regards it as a crime to hold socialist or communist opinions or to express them, America is no longer free America, and the Constitution is a scrap of paper. If it is a crime, why not deport all Socialists and Communists and all other persons who hold views contrary to those of the party in power?

The attempt to repress opinion and the expression of opinion in this country is not only ridiculous but it is a menacing assault on the principles and institutions of constitutional republicanism. It is a denial of all that makes American institutions the safeguard of the people. It is a sort of tyranny which is not only contrary to American principles but undermines the Government. It promotes underground sedition and invites ultimate revolution.

THE REPUBLICAN KEYNOTE.

The selection of Representative Theodore E. Burton of Ohio to be temporary chairman of the Republican national convention and to make the keynote speech is attributed to Old Guard influence. Washington judgment also sees in the announcement the political acumen of C. Bascom Slemmons, secretary to the President, who is not only credited with being the decisive factor in the choice of Mr. Burton, but whose skill in sidetracking other likely nominees for the place is acknowledged. Among the latter special mention is made of Hughes, who, according to the Slemmons viewpoint, might so have impressed himself upon the delegates as to have become a dangerous contender for the convention's exalted favor should circumstances conspire to halt the Coolidge march. Such a contingency is too remotely improbable for the layman to consider, but in the lexicon of the practical politician of the Slemmons type nothing is taken for granted and no needless risk, however infinitesimal, is run.

Regardless of the sponsorship of the chairmanship-designate, the choice of Mr. Burton will generally be commended. Though a regular Republican, there has always been a flavor of fine independence in his attitude towards party issues and in his activities as a public official. He has never been identified with the Old Guard element, or in sympathy with its purposes or methods. He is not easily classified, but he might truthfully be called a liberal-conservative. Too much of a partisan, perhaps, to be dependably liberal, and yet too truly liberal to be a rubber-stamp partisan. If the term "best mind" had not lost its savor it might with propriety be applied to Mr. Burton. Intellectually he qualifies for that distinction.

Because of his profound scholarship, broad experience in public affairs, which includes service in both the House and the Senate, as well as membership on important commissions and a mental integrity serenely above the demagoguery or rodomontade of the party ballyhoo, we may look for an utterance of dignity in Mr. Burton's keynote speech, for a grave and scholarly exposition of the campaign issues; and this, notwithstanding the keynote orator is of necessity a special pleader, who must abide within the limitations of effective politics.

It is not an easy assignment. The administration.

tion's record cannot be glorified in words though the keynote orator spoke with the tongue of angels. It is recorded, too, that the keynote speech is scrutinized by the party savants and powers that be and reduced to pulp. The dullness of more than one keynote speech has thus been accounted for. But this is another day, with peculiar needs of its own that call for special treatment—a treatment that embodies the courage to face delinquencies and disillusion and disaster and call them by their right name and prescribe the remedy in terms to appeal to popular credence and confidence. It may be an impossible task, but, in any event, Mr. Burton will bring it that high quality of respectability of which the Republican party stands in desperate need.

WHAT WILL MR. COOLIDGE DO?

In President Coolidge's speech to the Associated Press there was an excellent statement with regard to the necessity of maintaining American principles and institutions. He said:

American standards must be maintained. American institutions must be preserved. The freedom of the people politically, economically, intellectually, morally and spiritually must continue to advance.

What is actually happening with regard to the freedom of the people in all these phases?

Politically? The curbing of free speech and free assembly by laws, official authority and the growth of intolerant organizations to restrict freedom and disfranchise certain elements of the population; censorship of the mails.

Economically? The granting of economic privileges and the growth of monopoly and its power for economic oppression.

Intellectually? The growth of censorship for the regulation and suppression of publications, books, plays and moving pictures.

Morally and spiritually? Prohibition, legislation regulating morals and group movements to enforce moral and religious laws and racial and religious proscriptions.

American standards and institutions and freedom generally? The march of centralization through bureaucratic government, usurping the rights of states and individuals, and regulating the business and personal life and conduct of the people.

These are the tendencies which have been embodied in laws and regulations or are rapidly becoming governmental policies and which threaten the overthrow of American standards, institutions and liberties.

Mr. Coolidge advises the people to fight them. As President and leader of the people what definite program to check these tendencies, repeal repressive laws, abolish meddling bureaus and restore American standards, institutions and constitutional government has he to offer? What will he do to maintain American freedom?

CIVILIZING OUR RIVERS.

In his speech on starting the work on the first link of the giant Des Peres sewer, Mayor Kiel, perhaps reminiscent of what this historic stream used to be, said:

This stream which we are to inclose to eliminate its obnoxious features was a natural and beautiful stream until civilization and the march of progress brought it to its present state.

What an indictment of "civilization and the march of progress" that it means, in this case at least, the turning of a beautiful stream of clear water, fringed with woods in which flowers bloomed and birds sang, into a filthy, obnoxious, open sewer.

It is too late now to save the little river on whose banks the earliest settlers of the site of St. Louis encamped. The Des Peres has been neglected and used as a sewer until there is no Des Peres to save. Years ago, by forbidding its defilement and by constructing sewers to carry the sewage and storm water, this stream could have been kept as an object of natural beauty for the people. We have civilized it into a thing of villainess and must now hide the evidence of our folly.

And we are doing the same thing to other rivers, by failing to solve the problem of sewage disposal of the cities. The latest authorities on this subject virtually admit failure. Surely the problem is not too difficult for our chemists, scientists and sanitary engineers. It must be solved, if our rivers are to be saved.

Is the trick played on Mrs. Anna Lerner, a helpless young woman, a sample of the knighthood of the State Department?

"YOU TOOK MY JOB AWAY"

(From the New York World.)

Sir: In Xenophon's Memorabilia, Watson's translation, Book 4, chapter 8, page 196, appears:

"And do you think it strange?" inquired Socrates, "that I should seem better to the divinity that I should now come my life? Do you not know that, down to the present time I would not admit to any man that he has lived either better or with more pleasure than myself? For I consider that those live best who study best to become as good as possible, and that those live with most pleasure who feel the most assurance that THEY ARE DAILY GROWING BETTER AND BETTER."

As Brother Dickey so graphically remarks, when Brother Johnson reads his original poem on the "Old Oak Buckle" in the "Lime Kiln Club."

"Word for word and line for line."

A REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.

EDWARD D. DUNCAN.

It is said that Missouri Republicans are going to take a little more definite stand as to Ku Klux than the Democrats took, but most of us have no indefinite notion of how it will turn out.

Someone has finally mentioned David F. Houston, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, for the Democratic presidential nomination, but there seems to be no great rush to get on this highway.

HAIL THE NEW JOVE!

In the old days they had old Jove.
To clean and scrub and mop.
But nowadays we find it pay-
To use things made in shop.

The janitor man is half engineer.
And truly a man of parts
Who rides to work belike a peer
To start his cleansing arts.

From hiding places come machines
Driven by motors, juice and gas.
A mechanical crew which deftly cleans
The woodwork, carpets, walls and glass.

There goes the swishing electric scrubber
Removing all the dirt and stain.
While the motor-driven window rubber
Quickly polishes every pane.

The janitor man has longed for power,
As men have always done before him.
And now cleans in a single hour
So much what myriads adore him.

PLATFORM FOR THE DEMOCRATS.

(Monroe County, Mo., Appeal.)

If the Democratic national convention gets to looking for a winning plan for its platform, the Horse Editor can furnish one that is guaranteed to land a majority vote at every polling place in the nation. It reads as follows: "The Democratic party pledges itself to route at least one circus to every town which has a population of not less than 1000 nor more than 10,000, 999 inhabitants every year the party is in power."

The Congressman Burton chosen to make the keynote speech at the Cleveland convention is that same Theodore E. Burton whom we formerly feared and execrated as the arch enemy of river improvement. In these days, when the rivers can run over anyone on land, we scarcely recall whether the one-time Ohio Senator and former chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee is living or dead. It is therefore interesting to learn that he is living in a quiet way as a Congressman. We are indebted to Time for this sketch of him:

Ever and anon there rises to speak in the Lower House of Congress a man who, in respect of learning, is without equal in that chamber. Long since, in college days, he would challenge his fellows to read any two lines of Shakespeare which he could not locate—play, act, scene. Today the story pervades that the kitchen-range in his bachelor apartment is piled high with books.

In the presidency of Taft and Wilson, he—Theodore Elihu Burton—of Ohio—was a Senator. He is back in the House now, and from his floor he rose last week to pay the Senate a compliment as rare as it was pretty.

Speaking of the immigration bill as it affected Japan, he was of the opinion that the House should not legislate to exclude Japanese, but should leave the question to diplomatic arrangement. The House should not tamper with the Japanese question, he said. "The Senate has charge of our foreign relations and is in closer touch with the situation."

If you care to realize how time has changed one thing and another, we might tell you that Michael Angelo, probably get less for his frescoes in the Sistine Chapel than a paperhanger will almost certainly ask you now to paper your house.

Congressman Burton is going to make the keynote speech at the Cleveland convention, having won from Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury, the distinction of being the dead Republican needing recognition at any cost.

"SPRING SONNET" TO MY TIN LIZIE.

LIZIE, since you my only love have been,
Shower circumstances against me on asopite
That for a better one I can't aspire,
We'll make the other fellow plainly see
That you are just the one for me.
You beat them all in choiceness of your tin,
And give you sweet. No, to a blunderer like me you must be
Indulgent one for the one I did adore,
To make you mine, to help me now to save
Some pennies on the grocery bill and pay
Your gas bill, Liz. And if for you I gave
What that I will wish I had some day.
Oh—take me from my confining cage?

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

HIT THE NAIL ON THE HEAD.

From the New York World.

SOME years ago the students of Yale College adopted a set of rules to govern their own department. A Student Government Board was set up to enforce them. There was to be no smoking, no gambling, no drinking, no unbecoming conduct, no absence during study hours, etc. The rules still exist, but they are as often broken as observed. The Student Governing Board, finding itself unable to enforce the rules, tried to change it, failed to bring any representative vote—failed, in fact, to arouse any interest in the matter—and decided to resign in a body. A committee of six is now to revise the list of regulations. A law against drinking in the United States is unenforced, and especially in the case of the all-Ireland murrums Mamie, tried to change it, failed to bring any representative vote—failed, in fact, to arouse any interest in the matter—and decided to resign in a body. Easier to Iron With —and It Goes Farther EVERY housewife who takes great pride in the dainty fresh appearance of her linens is interested in the new starch discovery, Linit.

She knows it is often difficult to get good results with ordinary starch that forms a sticky jelly when it cools. For this pasty starch clots and smears on and makes your ironing difficult.

All this is now overcome with Linit, the remarkable new starch discovery.

Linit is a new starch—distinctly different from ordinary, old-fashioned starches. Linit gives a soft, pliable finish to all fabrics, making even cotton goods look and feel like linen.

LINIT is easier to iron with and is more economical because it makes a THIN, "milky" mixture, free-running like water. You dip your garments into this mixture, which is quickly absorbed by the fabric. Linit is not "spread on," which was customary with the old-fashioned starches. This is why you find it so much easier to iron with Linit—and why it is so economical.

PRESIDENT PREDICTS NEW DAY FOR SCIENCE

Dedicating Academy in Capital.
He Says This Country Will Illuminate World.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 23.—Setting anew the Government's "stamp of approval" on the work of the National Academy of Sciences, President Coolidge, speaking today at the dedication of the new quarters here of the two organizations, predicted the coming of "a new day in scientific research."

"A new sun is rising," he said. "It is destined to illuminate the scientific world by illuminating this hall."

The building, erected near Lincoln Memorial, at a cost of about $1,500,000, will house in addition to the national academy, the related organizations, numerous exhibits of natural phenomena and scientific discoveries.

The President traced the intimate relationship which, from the days of Benjamin Franklin, have existed between science and the American Government, and declared that "if there be one thing in which America is preeminent, it is a disposition to follow the truth."

"It is the same spirit," he declared, "that has moved through all our life, which makes it particularly appropriate that our national government should be active in its encouragement of the searching out of the truth in the physical world, and applying it to the well-being of the people, as it is interested in the searching out of the truth in the political world, with the same object in view."

Pointing to the declaration of Washington in his farewell address for promotion of "institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge," President Coolidge said: "The beginning of our Government therefore, had to do with the inception of scientific research in the United States."

"American science," he continued, "may be divided into five periods—the Jefferson period; that of Silliman; the Agassiz period; the present period of co-operative research, when no one dominates, and the future, for which definite foundations are being laid."

During the first period, the President said, Jefferson distinguished himself in paleontological researches, and set up his laboratory in the East Room of the White House.

During the Silliman period, John Quincy Adams was concerned in the founding of the Smithsonian Institute, and other important scientific societies were founded, he said. After the Civil War, President Coolidge declared, Lincoln interested himself in science, and signed a bill incorporating the National Academy of Sciences.

During the World War, the need for solution of important problems by groups of thinkers, rather than individuals, became apparent. Wilson had a part in the next scientific stride.

Organized by Wilson.
To this end, the speaker went on, the National Research Council was formed and, after the war, it was at the request of President Wilson, organized on a permanent basis.

The President then told of the acquisition, through the contribution of a number of philanthropists, of a site for the building dedicated today, and the donation of funds to erect the building, which he said might be termed "The Temple of Science in America."

"Nothing with more promise than the fifth period, that of the future of American science, could come to the American people," he continued. "The scientific man is rendering the earth to reveal its secrets. Truth must prevail for the betterment of mankind, and with the energy that the men of science are putting into the problems of research, Diogenes would certainly have a chance to lay down his quarter staff and lantern and rest, if he would turn his search in their direction."

Insistence of Truth.
"One of the most important possibilities for service of the National Academy of Sciences in the future, lies in its opportunity for inspiring the people of America, by insistence upon having the truth, and nothing but the truth, regarding everything that touches our life as a nation. It is always to be borne in mind that while the peculiar relation of the academy to the Government may concern the conduct of specific researches, the example of dignified emphasis upon the truth, as reached by correct thinking in every department of research, and in its practical execution, make a contribution of inestimable value to the whole people."

"It is for this purpose that the Government sets its stamp of approval upon this effort and joins in dedicating this building to the betterment of the human race by achieving a clearer knowledge of the truth."

Speakers besides President Coolidge included Dr. A. A. Michelson, of the University of Chicago, winner of the 1907 Nobel prize for physics, and president of the academy; Dr. John C. Merriam, of the Carnegie Institute, Washington, vice president of the academy; and Dr. Vernon Kellogg, permanent secretary of the council.

WOMAN SWALLOWS A PIN
Physicians at City Hospital today ordered X-ray photographs to be taken, in an effort to locate a pin which Miss Marjorie Feeter Spiel, 29, of 1710 South Seventh street, swallowed while at work sorting clothes at a cleaners and dyers' establishment.

Miss Feeterspiel said she was holding several pins in her mouth, when a dust particle caused her to cough, with the resultant swallowing of one of the pins. This was Friday afternoon. She said she felt no ill effects until about 11:30 o'clock last night, when she felt pains and decided to apply to be hospitalized for treatment.

Unusual Tales of Adventure, Tragedy, Mystery, Humor From Real Life

PRESENT OR ACCOUNTED FOR.
By Robert Welles Ritchie.

THEY were telling yarns of the Philippines down in the Officers' Club at Fort Monmouth—that snug little niche tucked away in the old sea-fronting bastions—and the tenor of the talk was all of the reaction of the tropics upon the soul of the white man. That and how loneliness and the near presence of death in the jungle works to undermine the morals of the Anglo-Saxon. A Captain of the Third Field Artillery, one who spoke with the soft elisions of the Texans, took up the tale:

"You over there, Major; you were down in Mindanao when old Datto Gum was on the loose. You'll know just how the things I'm telling could come about. An outpost in Zamboanga, looking south to Sulu—walk a hundred yards from the city wall and you'd get a bolo through the skull—night alarms—sniping from those Mausers the gun-runners shipped over from the China coast—fevers—dysentery—have I covered the high points? Don't a man's insides just rot under those conditions; and all his red blood turn to white?"

"Well, gentlemen, our outfit'd been down there six months when two boys of my company—call 'em Dodge and Rush—disappeared. Both good boys, both holding medals for marksmanship. We sent searching parties out into the bush as far as we dared, expecting to find their bodies. Not a trace! We simply scratched them off the company roster as missing.

"The sniping went on as usual. One day the guard who was sitting by the clothes of an outfit that had gone swimming was shot through the forehead. It was a Krag bullet and not one from the Mausers the datto's men used. We wondered how old Gum had managed to lay hands on one of the service rifles.

"Two-three months after Dodge and Rush had disappeared our outfit took the offensive against the datto and pushed him into one of his old mud-walled forts. Nice little fight there. We rushed the place. One of my lieutenants was the first on top of the wall. He sat there firing Krag into the datto's men as fast as they could be handed up to him while our ladder was being spliced where it had been broken. All of a sudden he turned and yelled down to me in the ditch. "By God, Captain—two white men!—Dodge and Rush, sir, or I'm a Chinaman!"

"When we all swarmed over and chased the datto's men out into the jungle this lieutenant was white and shaking. 'Naked to the waist they were,' he said to me, 'with rags round their heads like regular Moros. Both of them tried hard to get me.'

"I tried my best to believe him, gentlemen. But it didn't seem to make sense; two of our own men turned yellow as that and fighting with half-civilized Moros. However, at the end of that little offensive old Datto Gum sent in word he'd had enough and wanted to make peace on any terms.

"He and his men had surrendered one of them squealed—said Dodge and Rush had married two of their women, become Mohammedans and lived like Moros. Of course, when the datto gave up our two deserters had to take to the mountains. They were sure enough out-casts then.

"Figure it, gentlemen: two white men with their brown women out in the bush and with the world against them. Not nice, eh?"

"Almost a year after that a native came in from the mountains and told us Dodge and Rush were dead. Said he could take us to their bodies. We sent a detachment back with the man to fetch in what remained of the two deserters.

"The Sergeant in charge afterwards told me he'd found the two skeletons side by side, a bullet hole through the skull of each; and from the position of the rusted Krag it was plain suicide.

"Well, gentlemen, I don't know how to tell you the windup of this story. It doesn't sound nice. It sure wouldn't read nice in any report. I reckon we all had slipped some from decent white man's code out yonder. But—

"The day those bones came into the post somebody at the officers' club made a suggestion and the surgeon of the outfit got busy. He laid out those bones on the terrace in front of the club just as you'd articulate a skeleton in a medical college—bone to bone and skulls in place. There were no campaigns, but on each skull and laid those two rusty Krag long-side the right arm bones in the position of 'carry arms.'

"There for two days remained all that was left of Dodge and Rush for all the post to see."

SHERIFF INJURED IN FIGHT WITH PRISONER IN JAIL
Officer Bruised Trying to Subdue Man Who Is Believed Mentally Unsound.
Edward Deimling, Sheriff of Madison County, Illinois, suffered numerous bruises and scratches early today during an encounter in the county jail at Edwardsville with a prisoner held for observation of his mental condition. The Sheriff sought to subdue the prisoner, Mike Chrey, 35 years old, a coal miner, of Livingston, after his screams prevented sleep of other prisoners and persons living near the jail.
The man attacked the Sheriff with a mop handle when the cell door was opened to transfer him to another part of the jail. The handle was wrested from the man, who then attempted to choke the Sheriff and struck and scratched him. The Sheriff finally landed a blow which knocked Chrey down and he was handcuffed. Later he was sent to the Alton State Hospital for Insane, where an investigation of his mental condition will take place later today. The man was being held at Edwardsville pending examination, having escaped last week from a hospital in Litchfield.

HORSES 25 CENTS TO $17
Auction Held to Clear California Forest of Herds.

By the Associated Press.
ALTURAS, Cal., April 28.—One horse was sold for 25 cents and 30 horses were sold for $1 each at a recent public auction held here to clear the national forest ranges of horse herds of little value. The highest price paid for any horse was $17.

The auction was arranged by officials of the Modoc National Forest. Cattle and sheep growers of the region require few horses, the automobile having replaced the broncho in all except actual range riding. Thus the surplus of horses had increased until it was a problem. Hundreds of horses were disposed of at the auction. Many others may be had almost for the asking.

George Burton Dies in Paris.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, April 28.—George Burton, son of the late Max Bernheimer, New York brewer, was found dead in his bed yesterday. The night before he had appeared in the best of health, dining with a party at a prominent restaurant, and later dancing at a fashionable cabaret. The doctors attribute death to a blood clot on the brain. Burton, who changed his name after inheriting his father's fortune, served as a First Lieutenant in the aviation corps during the war.

to right. That tied the score and,
with Cleveland fighting ragged ball and the Browns playing a game fight in the face of great odds, it appeared that St. Louis was a certain winner.

McManus Hits a Homer.
The inevitable came in the seventh when Williams popped a single to left and McManus hit over the left field fence for a home run.
With a lead of two runs and Shucks
Pruett in the box the Browns entered the eighth ready to celebrate their second successive victory.
However, Prueett's curve, a subtle thing, which is most difficult to control, slammed into big Sherry Smith's ribs. Then Clarke, left fielder, doubled to right center, scoring Smith and putting Cleveland only one run behind.

In the ninth, Prueett retired Tris
Speaker on a grounder to McManus and then he pitched two balls to Sewell. Burns came up and the quicker series of bad breaks followed and the Browns went off the field a dejected crew.

Browns' Hurling Weak.
It was the poor pitching of Billy Bayne and Elam Vangilder that put the Browns seven runs behind at the start. They struck out the nightmarcher to get the side out.

George Grant, who relieved Van-gilder pitched very fine ball and yielded only two hits and no runs in two innings.

Pruett, except for the fatal ninth, looked as effective as in the days of 1922. He struck out the nightmarcher, "Spoke" was lunging and side stepping and ducking and swinging but the best he could get was a foul.

HYDROPLANE RACES MARRED BY MISHAPS, TWO BOATS CAPSIZED

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—The closing day's program of the hydro-plane races conducted on Lake Pon-chartrain by the New Orleans Speed

Boat Association was marred yesterday by a series of mishaps, three of the boats plunging to the bottom of the lake and another one being disabled when she sprang a leak.

During the third race, for 725 cubic-inch piston displacement class

the Meteor VI, owned by Walter B. Wilde of Peoria, Ill., and driving by L. W. Tefft, ripped a plank from her bottom when her propeller shaft was sprung, throwing Tefft and his mechanic, Curley Anderson, into the water. They were quickly picked up.

The race was won by Black Diamond of Peoria. Her time was 15m

38. Elmer of Peoria was second in 15m 25s. Meteor VI, the only other entry, was on her second lap of the 15-mile course when she went down.

In the free-for-all 10-mile race,

Meteor VII, another Wilde boat, tumbled turtle and plunged under the surface while going at the 55 miles an hour. Tefft and Art

Lacey, mechanic, were rescued, and the boat raised. Miss Dubonnet of New Orleans, the other entry, strained a plank and took on so much water she did not finish and was taken in tow by a patrol boat.

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—The Swiss baseball league opened its season yesterday afternoon. Bethany defeated Bethlehem in the second and feature game.

Zion defeated Pilgrim, 5 to 4, in the first game. Zion scored its winning run in the seventh. Schaffering, Zion's third baseman, starred both in the field and at bat.

A Powerful Story of Today

CHAPTER TEN

LIFE began to take on a new flavor. The future held hidden gold on promises. Jeannette had always had a protecting, proprietary attitude toward her mother and Alice, but now she was acutely aware of it, and the thought was sweet to her; she reveled in the prospect of the role she must inevitably assume. All her world was centered in her eager, hard-working, ever-cheerful, fussy little mother, and her gentle brown-eyed sister who looked up to her with such adoration and implicit faith. Jeannette felt she had forever established their confidence in her by this successful step into the business world. Her mother had been completely won by her good fortune, and her stout little bosom swelled with pride in her daughter's achievement. Eagerly she told her pupils about it, and even regaled with the news of good-natured Signor Bellini and politely indifferent Miss Loughborough.

To Jeannette, the Soule Publishing Co. became at once a concern of tremendous importance. Before little Miss Ingram had mentioned its name to her, she was not sure she had ever heard it. Now she seemed to see it wherever she turned, heard about it in chance conversations at least once a day; it leaped at her from advertisements in the newspapers and from the pages of magazines. Books, she casually picked up, bore its imprint. A great pride in the big company that employed her came to her; it was the largest and most enterprising of all publishing houses; it was spending a million dollars advertising The Universal History of the World; it had hundreds of employees on its payroll!

If there were less rosate aspects of the concern that paid her $15 every Saturday, Jeannette did not see them. She never stopped to examine critically the history she was helping to sell, nor to glance into the pages of the Secret Memoirs, nor to open the leaves of the set of books labeled Favorites of Great Kings. She never thought it curious that the firm employed so many cheaply dressed, vulgar-tongued little Jewesses, and sallow-skinned, covert-eyed girls. Nor did she wonder that she never observed any important looking individuals who might be officials of the company, walking about or up and down the aisles of the racketing, bustling loft. There was only Mr. Kent. The others, whoever they might be, confined their activities, she came to understand, to the main offices of the Company on West Thirty-second street. This great loft with its sea of life was only a temporary arrangement, part of the great selling campaign by which a hundred thousand sets of the History were to be sold before May first. Something of tremendous import was to happen on this fateful date—an upheaval in trade conditions, a great change in the publishing world. Jeannette was not sure what it was all to be about, but she was convinced that after May first, the public would no longer have this wonderful chance to buy the twenty-five volumes of the History at such a ridiculously low price.

Behind glass partitions in one corner of the extensive floor were the inner offices, the "holy of holies" Jeannette thought of them, where Mr. Edmund Kent existed, pulled wires, touched bells, and gave orders that generated the activities of the hundreds of human beings who clicked away at their typewriters, or deftly folded thousands and thousands of circulars, or tucked into waiting envelopes that were later dragged away in grimy, striped-canvas mail sacks. Mr. Edmund Kent was the Napoleon, the great King, the far-seeing master who in his awesome, mysterious glass-partitioned office, ruled them with arbitrary and benevolent power. All day long, Jeannette heard Mr. Kent's name mentioned. Miss Gibson quoted him; Mr. Beardsley decided this or that important matter must be referred to him. What Mr. Kent thought, said, did, was final. The girl used to catch a glimpse of the great man, now and then, as he came in, in the morning, or went out to a late lunch; a square shouldered, firm-stepping man with a derby hat, a straight, trim mustache, and an overcoat whose corners flapped about his knees. He seemed wonderful to her.

"Shhh!" a whisper would come from one of the girls near by; "there's Mr. Kent"; and all would watch him out of the corners of their eyes as he pretended to bend over their work.

"Mr. Kent is president of the company," Jeannette one day ventured to ask Mr. Beardsley.

"Oh, no, just the selling agent," he replied. This was perplexing, but it did not make Jeannette regard with any less veneration the stocky figure in derby hat and flapping coat corners who strode in and out of the office.

There were other mysterious persons who had desks in the "holy of holies," but Jeannette was never able to make out who these were, nor what might be their duties. Miss Gibson was in charge of the girls on the floor; Mr. Beardsley was her immediate "boss." There was a cashier who made up the pay-roll and whose assistants handed out the little manila envelopes on Saturday morning containing the neatly folded bills. She had no occasion to be concerned about anyone else.

Her "boss's" full name was Roy Beardsley. Roy! She smiled when she heard it. He was young—twenty-three or four; he was a recent Princeton graduate, was unmarried and lived in a boarding-house somewhere on Madison avenue. She found out so much from the girls her second day at the office; they were glib with information concerning any one of the force.

Jeannette liked her young boss, principally because it soon became apparent that he treated her with a courtesy he did not accord the other girls. She was, after all, a "lady," she told herself, straightening her shoulders a trifle, and he was sufficiently well bred himself to recognize that fact. He must see, of course, the difference between herself and such girls as—well—as Miss Flannigan, for instance. But more than this, Jeannette grew daily more and more convinced that he was beginning to take a personal interest in her for which none of those considerations accounted. Nothing definite between them gave this justification. But there was no word, no intonation of voice that had any significance, but she saw it in a quick glimpse of his blue eyes watching her as she sat beside his desk, in the smile of his strange little mouth that stretched itself tightly across his small teeth when he first greeted her in the day and wished her "good-morning." Some strange thrilling of her pulses beset her as she sat near him. It irritated her; she struggled against it, even rose to her feet and went to her desk upon a manufactured excuse to check the subtle influence that began to steal upon her when she was near him. All her instincts battled against this upsetting something, whatever it was,—she could not identify it by a name,—which began more and more to trouble her.

Jeannette was a normal, healthy girl budding into womanhood, with broadening horizons and rapidly increasing intimate associations with the world. She was growing daily more mature, more impressive in her bearing, and notably more beautiful. She was fully conscious of this. Her mirror told her so, the glances of men on the street contributed their evidence, the covert inspection of her own sex both in and out of the office confirmed it. She was becoming aware, too, of a growing self-confidence, of poise and power in herself that she had never suspected.

THREE-MINUTE JOURNEYS

WHERE A DESERT IS RIGHTLY NAMED "PAINTED."

WHAT a picturesque name they have given one of the deserts of Arizona, the Painted Desert. It is justified, as those who have ventured far into it know, by the brilliancy of its coloring in the sunshine.

The Painted Desert is not like Sahara, a vast level sea of sand. It is a country of hills and valleys, possessing soil among the finest in the world, which has been turned into a desert by complete lack of rainfall.

Certain things grow upon it, the mesquite, the sagebrush, the creosote bush and huge cacti, sometimes 50 feet high. The hills are bare rock and shine in the sunlight red or brown or blue according to their formation. There are long stretches of bright yellow sand and the grays and browns of the scant vegetation combine to complete the coloring.

Sandstorms arise in this desert as furious as those of the Sahara and more unpleasant because of the alkali with which the sand is mixed. They have a saying in Arizona, that if you buy land in the desert, you must see that it is safely anchored or it will blow away.

In one part of the desert is located the celebrated petrified forest, one of the most fascinating spots of this strange land. On all sides are great stone trunks, pine trees of agate and of chalcedony. Lying about are branches and chips of amethyst, red agate and smoky topaz.

Scientists explain this amazing condition with the story that some age there was an ample rainfall in Arizona and a great forest reared its head on this spot. Then, during some convulsion of nature, the land sank and an ocean rushed in and buried the forest, a sea which was much more strongly impregnated with mineral salts than our oceans of the present time. The trees decayed and rotted and finally turned into stone.

Another cataclysm heaved this district once more into the open air, and little by little the rains and winds washed away the sand of the sea bottom and uncovered the stone trees.

A certain kind of animal life exists in the desert. There is a lizard whose hide is many-colored so that he fits the painted desert perfectly. There is a particularly vicious sort of rattlesnake called the "sidewinder" which has a slithering motion that gives it the name.

In a territory not much less barren than the Painted Desert, and sometimes even invading it, may be found the Pueblo Indians, who live in adobe houses built one upon another, each story one step back from the lower story, thus affording a shelf that is used as a porch. The Indians enter and leave their curious habitations by ladders.

Are Women More Mercenary Than Men?

Woman's Measure of a Man in Money—Is This the Result of Necessity?—Man's Measure of Money in Power

"Women As a Class Will Gamble in Emotions—Not Money; Men Will Gamble in Money—Not in Emotions"

Time-Honored Custom of Wheedling and Wrangling for Money—Man's Accepted Gesture As Lordly Spender

That only those marriages are successful which the man dominates, was the conclusion drawn by Mr. Cary in a recent article of this great symposium on the problems of modern society. He argued that even a shrewish woman may only be trying to get a man into such an exhibition of mastery, since "woman's stark choice is between being dominated by a man who is worth having, and dominating a man who is not worth having." Mr. Cary now turns his unusual psychological X-ray into another phase of matrimonial relations—the pre-empting, almost unescapable question of money.

By LUCIAN CARY

MEN believe women care altogether too much about money; that women are mercenary. And their belief has this much truth in it: women do care more about money than men do.

Women believe that men have no proper sense of responsibility about money and want money only so they can spend it like drunken sailors. And their belief has this much truth in it: men have no such conserving sense of money as women have.

There are exceptions. There are women who are as reckless with money as any sailor who ever lived. And there are men who are so careful about money that they are painful to contemplate. But these individuals are not characteristic.

The diametrically opposed attitudes of men and women about money are plain enough in marriage—and plainer still in the business of choosing partners which precedes marriage. The normal girl is quite incapable of considering marriage, without considering the man's income. She wants a man who earns plenty of money, whether in her vocabulary plenty means $20 a week or $2000. The normal man is capable of considering whether he has enough money to marry until he is forced to—usually after he has proposed to the girl.

If he has plenty of money he may not discover how much more realistic her view of money is until after he is married. But—and this is the usual case—when he hasn't plenty of money the matter is going to be brought to his attention. When it is, he is more likely than not to refuse to face the facts. It is much easier to conclude that women are mercenary.

Of course if he has really fallen in love with the girl he has to repress the feeling that she is mercenary. He goes about it this way. Mary Jane is perfect.

Perfect girls are not mercenary. Therefore, Mary Jane is not mercenary.

Having convinced himself that Mary Jane lives on some plane so far above this our world that the realities of money do not exist for her, he proceeds to convince her that he is going to make twice as much money as he ever has, three times as much, ten times as much. What is more, he usually succeeds. I mean he succeeds in convincing her.

Why do so many men succeed in convincing women that they are going to make plenty of money when (nine times out of ten) they don't and can't and won't?

Salary as Evidence of Merit. For two reasons. First, because the women want to believe it. Second, because the number of women in our society is almost precisely equal to the number of men. Which is only another way of saying that the average woman has to marry the average man. Most women have to marry prospectuses or nothing.

But other things being equal, a woman not only chooses to marry a man with a good income in preference to a man with a poor income; she actually falls in love with him. You say: "Of course—other things being equal—only other things seldom are equal." No—other things seldom are equal. The chances are that the man with the good income has the other advantages as well. By and large, a

CONTRADICTORY ACCUSATIONS

"Men have two universal charges against women. The first is that they are extravagant and the second is that they are tight-wads. Which seems absurd. It is absurd. It is just one more illustration of men's utter inability to be honest about money. . . . Yet their words are not wholly without meaning. When they say women are tight-wads they are thinking of the way their wives check their own favorite large careless air about spending money. And when they say that women are extravagant, they are thinking about women's clothes."

to a woman. She can't as easily sleep in a park or beat her way on a freight train or pick up an odd job and no references asked. And when she has children she is particularly helpless. It is in the nature of things that women have a greater regard for money, take more thought for the future, than men.

Some men want money—lots of money—millions—with a sharpness of desire that is almost unknown among women. They want it because it means power. All men want power. They may not want it enough to get it. But they want it. They want to make their mark in the world. Only one man in a million or so has a chance to make his mark as an inventor, or scientist, or artist, or statesman. Ten times as many men have a chance—or believe they have a chance—to make their mark through money.

And because men have more highly developed egos than women, because they are more competitive on any scale larger than the domestic scale, they go in for making money as a game—usually to the great distress of their women-folk. Most women would rather be sure of a comfortable income than risk everything on the chance of making a million.

Women as a class will gamble in emotions—not in money. Men will gamble in money—not in emotions.

A Masculine Privilege.

Women care more about money than men do, not because they are mercenary but by the necessity of their being. Women not only need to be conservative about money; they are trained and exhorted and required to be conservative about money. Women almost universally manage the expenditure of the family income—women buy nearly nine-tenths of the things that are bought for the home, including the greater part of the clothes their husbands wear. Extravagance in a woman is shameful. Nobody excuses it. Extravagance in a man is a frequently beneficial. It is part of the accepted masculine gesture to spend money with a careless air.

Women—even women who earn good incomes in the business world—are slow to acquire this air of the sailor on leave. Successful business men who charge extravagant entertaining to promotion and pride themselves on spending money freely for other men's lunches and taxicabs and Scotch frequently observe that their wives are thrifty in entertaining their women friends. Of course they are. They have been brought up that way. Not one woman in a hundred dares risk the charge of extravagance—even in spending her own money. Spending money unnecessarily is a masculine privilege.

Yes, men have two universal charges against women. The first is that they are extravagant and the second is that they are tight-wads. Which seems absurd. It is absurd. It is just one more illustration of men's utter inability to be honest about money. A student of applied psychology of my acquaintance tells me that all men lie consciously, half-consciously, and unconsciously, about their sexual lives. But they lie harder about money.

A Standard Dribble.

Dishonest (and unjust) as men are when they talk about women and money, their words are not wholly without meaning. When they say women are tight-wads they are thinking of the way their wives check their own favorite large careless air about spending money. And when they say that women are extravagant they are thinking about women's clothes.

It goes without saying that the women of this continent spend an amount of money on clothes that the climate does not account for. But I am not sure that they are any more responsible for it than we are. We have made it the business of women to attract men. They have to do it. And then we have so hedged them about with restrictions of propriety that they can hardly find any permissible way of doing it except making themselves good to look at.

There is a standard diatribe against women that I have read and heard a great many times in the last 18 years. It concerns the shop-girl who spends 10 cents for lunch and $1 for sheer silk stockings. This is supposed to prove the inherent depravity of women. I think it proves something quite different. I think it proves that the shop-girl wants a home and a husband and children and that she believes spending her money on silk stockings is a more likely way of attaining the desired and than spending it on lunch.

Where Women Wins.

The truth is that women are simply more realistic about money than men are. It comes hard to the sentimental male to discover that the girl who has got him has had one eye on his earning capacity all the time. He would much rather believe that she loves him for himself alone and not at all for what he can put over in the office. He may have spent most of his time for six months bragging to her about what he can do, has done and will do. But that doesn't prevent him from resenting her natural concern about his prospects.

One of his ways of retaliating is to make fun of women's ways with money. He invents those yarns about women who can't make out a check or get a bank account balanced. Nothing will induce him to make a simple, just and businesslike arrangement with her but which she knows just where she is. A wife has a moral claim on her husband's income. But she can rarely get it openly recognized. She has to wrangle about it. Most women wheedle for money. That is most husbands force their wives to wheedle for money.

If wheedling fails to get the money she wants and believes herself entitled to, she must resort to her great weapon, which is making the man feel guilty. It is a rare man who is so innocent that a clever woman can't make him feel guilty. Wholly innocent men have long since been wrapped around some woman's little finger for things less important than the rent and the milk bill.

My Rosy Skin

How I clean it—how I preserve it
By Edna Wallace Hopper

My skin is the marvel of millions. Even softer and more rosy than 40 years ago. Yet mine is a grandmother's age. I have lived in the limelight. I served France five years in the rigors of the war. Yet countless young girls envy my complexion. I can easily pass for 19.

France gave me the methods I employ now, in gratitude, I am supplying them to others. They multiplied my beauty, gave me perennial youth. Now I hope to bring to millions the benefits I got.

How I keep clean
The first step to beauty is a clean skin—a skin that is clean to the depths. Lucile Lantelme, a famous Parisian beauty, taught me how to get it.

The method is a liquid cleanser. I call it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin. But it penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin, comes with it.

You may think you clean your skin without it, but you don't. Apply Facial Youth to what you call a clean skin and see the extra dirt you get. That is what causes blackheads and blemishes.

I cover my body with Facial Youth before bathing. Thus I remove three times the refuse I remove without it.

Nothing to compare
My Facial Youth is the greatest cleansing formula science has created. The greatest beauty experts now employ it. Some supply it to others, but at four times my price.

I bring it to you at a modest price, and I urge you to employ it. You will find nothing to approach it. A fine complexion is impossible unless the skin is clean.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth is now available in all drug stores and test counters at 75 cents per bottle. Also my Youth Cream—my fruit cold cream—my White Youth Clay—the last word in facial clay. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my luxuriant hair. My Beauty Book comes with each.

Take this first step to beauty now—clean the skin with my Facial Youth. The immediate results will amaze you. Then, if you wish my other aids, they are at your call. Edna Wallace Hopper, 539 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

When Size and Might Didn't Count

If you are big, if you are strong, Take care you do not others wrong.

—Jimmy Skunk.

He ordered Jimmy Skunk to clear out.

ISN'T it queer how often people who are very big or very strong appear to think that they can do just as they please? They do. Yes, sir, they do. They take what they want because they know they can and no one can stop them. Of course it is one form of selfishness.

Now, Buster Bear is very big. Also he is very strong. He has great claws. He can do just about as he pleases, and usually he does. Flathorns the Moose is about the only one in the Green Forest whom Buster Bear would fear to fight. So Buster has the habit of doing just about as he pleases among the other people of the Green Forest.

There are just two of the smaller people for whom Buster has respect, and who in turn are not afraid of Buster. One is Jimmy Skunk. This is the reason that Buster was so uncertain as he sat in the moonlight in the clearing where Farmer Brown's sugar house was. Jimmy Skunk was there too, and Jimmy was right in front of the door of the sugar house. Buster was sure that he could break into that sugar house if he really tried. Indeed it was for this purpose that he had come over there. He knew that neither Farmer Brown's Boy nor Farmer Brown was there. His tongue fairly dripped with longing for some of the sweets he knew had been made inside that sugar house. So Buster was much upset when he discovered Jimmy Skunk.

Now, Jimmy Skunk was so small compared with Buster Bear that Buster could have flattened him right out with one blow of a big paw. He knew it. Yet Buster didn't dare go near enough to try it. He walked back and forth at a respectful distance, or sat up and stared long and hard at the sugar house. All the time he grew angrier and angrier. He knew, he just knew he could get into that sugar house if he tried. There wasn't a thing to prevent him excepting the presence of that little fellow in the black and white suit in front of the door.

Buster growled and grumbled and muttered to himself. He walked around behind the sugar house. There was no way of getting in from that side. He returned once more to the front, hoping that Jimmy Skunk might have disappeared. But Jimmy was still there.

Buster growled his very deepest, most ugly sounding growl. He drew back his lips and showed his big, strong teeth. He ordered Jimmy Skunk to clear out. He told him that he certainly would be killed if he didn't. At first Jimmy made no reply at all. It tickled him to see great, big Buster Bear working himself into such a rage, yet taking care not to come a step nearer.

But after a while Jimmy Skunk became annoyed. He was tired of having this big, blustering fellow about. Then in his turn he became angry. He stamped with his front feet, a way he has of doing when he is angry. Then he took a few steps toward Buster Bear, and his big, plumy tail was raised. That tail is Jimmy's danger signal. Buster Bear had his eyes on it. He backed away somewhat hastily, all the time growling and making dreadful threats. Jimmy didn't hurry, but he kept straight on. Buster tried to get courage enough to stand his ground, but the thought of that little scent gun of Jimmy's was too much for him. He backed away as fast as Jimmy approached. At last he turned and shuffled off into the Green Forest. Jimmy Skunk chuckled and returned to the sugar house.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Sweets to the Sweet.
A tablespoonful of sugar added to the water when boiling sweet potatoes will greatly improve their flavor.

Squeak! Squeak!
If that door hinge upon squeaking every time the door is opened or closed, rub a little soap on the offending part. It will stop immediately.

Old Carpets Rejuvenated.
If the pattern of the carpet has faded but the material is still good, it would pay to have it dyed a plain dark color. If too sombre, one small bright rug would be very effective.

Smooth Sauces.
Never add flour to a hot liquid and expect smooth results. It must always be blended first with cold water or milk and then stirred slowly into the hot mixture. In this way it will thicken smoothly.

In the Handkerchief Box.
One housewife uses this clever way of distinguishing her best handkerchiefs from those of everyday use. When ironing them she folds all her ordinary handkerchiefs into squares and her better ones into triangles. Then she can select just what she wants, day or night.

FINNAN HADDIE FRITTERS

Free from bones and skin what is left of a broiled or baked haddie, then flake it fine. There should be about a heaping cupful of the flaked fish. Make the usual fritter batter and add to it, pepper, a little salt, the juice of an onion, half a pepper minced fine and a teaspoonful of minced chives. Beat in the fish and a half teaspoonful of sugar. This additional sugar browns

Why you can always depend on Enterprise

No conditions of the wheat crop have ever affected the quality of Enterprise Flour. It has never been made of anything but the very highest grade of strong hard winter wheat. And nothing but the choicest part of each kernel at that. It is made to a fixed standard of quality and strength—the best.

Right now there is a shortage of good strong hard winter wheat. The entire crop is 120,000,000 bushels smaller than last year's, and much of it is inferior. Yet the quality of wheat in Enterprise is the same as ever. The entire country is scoured to find the best and the necessary premiums are paid to get it. For a few extra cents a sack you can be sure of getting the best.

Suggestions to the
Bald Head Club

Exciting Race

Between Ears

Dear editor:
MAY 12 has been set to 1 side as the date for the annual meeting of the Bald Head Club of America. As the club was founded in Connecticut most all the meetings is held in what I have nicknamed the Nutmeg state and the one next mo. will be in Waterbury. No matter if you are a member or no, you are eligible to attend and join the organization provided you can prove by 2 witnesses that you don't harbor a comb in the home.

The club just done the undersigned the honor of asking me to make the annual address which I declined on the grounds that it will be a couple of more years before I can talk to the boys on a equal footing. When the proper time comes and I am read into the fold, I will lead all possible assistance to a membership drive that will give the organization such nation wide strength as to enable it to carry out as important reforms as is now being tended to by the Ku Klux Klan and the Girl Scouts.

I don't want nobody to get the impression that I am criticizing the Bald Heads for their present lack of activity. In the 1st place I understand that the sole purpose of the club when organized was to just meet once a yr. and kind of comfort each other with stories and incidents in regards to the advantages of baldness. They have been a success as far as doing what they set out to do is concerned. But it seems to me like a shame to have such a ass. devote themselves to pleasure only when they're so much necessary work that they might do.

The 1st measure that I would suggest is to have each local chapter apply to the police dept. of its city for permission for every member to carry a gun. Members would have to pledge themselves to not misuse their weapons but to use them only when necessary, and for effective use of same they would be awarded a cash prize to be drawn either from the local or national treasury. Prizes would be awarded to any member fatally shooting.

1. Any barber who mentioned the word tonic in the presence of a member.
2. Any citizen of either sex that slapped any member on the head or rubbed his or her hand over same.

3. Any citizen who made any facetious remark to a member in regards to their ailment, like for inst. "Put on your hat. You're bald." "Put on your hat. You're bald."

Boycott on Firpo and Heifetz.
The custom of wearing a wig or toupee would be considered a insult to the organization but if the person caught doing same (and it might be stated at this point that a man is wearing a wig is to look at him) is a 1st offender, he should be let off with a scolding provided he publicly destroys the equipment. After the 1st offense he should be given the same treatment as the barber and the citizens mentioned above.

In time it would be my idea to take some kind of action vs. the boys that is 20 years old and over and still retains the same amt. of hair they had at 21. This list would include boys like Thos. Meighan, John Barrymore, Valentino and Count Ludwig Salm von Oodoedroff and the 1st step would be to warn them and then if they didn't show no falling off in a reasonable time, have them bobbed by a Red Indian.

I would impose a severe penalty on any member that went to a recital by Heifetz or attended a fight in which Firpo was taking part or patronized any event by which benefits would accrue to 1 of these hairy apes.

Ira Lobe Wins Big Event.
While on the subject of the Bald Heads it might not be out of place to inform readers that several other clubs of a somewhat similar nature has recently been organized which has very simple eligibility rules which may be guessed by the readers themselves. Amongst these is the Chinless Club, the Meeting Eyebrows Club, the Freckles Club, the Ancient Order of Moles, the Store Teeth Assn. and the Independent Order of Outstanding Ears.

Of these, the last named is the latest in the field and also seems to have the most ingenuity. Like for inst. their 2d. annual meeting was held 2 weeks ago and the meeting place was Erie, Pa. On motion of the president, steps was taken for the formation of a ladies auxiliary, to be made up of gals whose ears refused to hide but insists on swaying in the breeze. The auxiliary will be called the Flappers.

After a brief business session, the entire membership clumb aboard a Erie train and was taken to the Erie Canal, where each was provided with a flat bottom boat not furnished with oars or other means of locomotion. Each member clumb into his boat and there followed 1 of the most exciting events of years, a race from Buffalo to Illion, N. Y., using the ears as sails. The race was won by Ira Lobe of New Era, Ohio, who boasts that when at home, he has to go in and out the door sideways.

ST. LOUISANS SMASH HYDE SLATE AND PUT ALOE ON

Governor Meets Demand of Chairman Becker With Offer to Remove One of Three Women After Babbler Calls Off Fight for Himself.

"BOSS-CONTROLLED" CONVENTION OPENS

Hyde Forces Will Use a "Steam-Roller" to Carry Out Executive's Program at Springfield Meeting to the Letter.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 29.—Through the elimination of Mrs. Frank P. Hyde, president of the Women's Republican Club of St. Louis, from the administration slate for delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention and the substitution of Louis P. Aloe of St. Louis, virtually all possibility of discord at the Republican State convention, which commenced here at 11:28 o'clock today, has been avoided. The only serious remaining over, which there should be serious disagreement in the platform declaration on the Hyde Klan and that undoubtedly will be worked out in the resolution committee in a manner acceptable to the convention.

Following an announcement by National Committeeman Babbler that he would not permit his name to go before the convention as a delegate-at-large, his supporters in the St. Louis delegation, under the leadership of Louis J. Becker, chairman of the City Committee, demanded of Gov. Hyde and his friends, who are in complete control of the convention, that Aloe be placed on the slate.

Hyde Assents to Proposal.
Hyde agreed on condition that Aloe take the place previously allotted to Mrs. Hyde, and that the St. Louis delegation support the administration program all the way down the line. This was agreed to and the deal was made. It was thought for awhile that this would cause serious objection from the woman whose representation was thereby reduced from three to two, but Mrs. Hyde accepted the change without objection. She will be an alternate delegate.

Mrs. Hyde said she had no objection to the deal, explaining that Aloe was from the same ward in which she resided, and that she believed the St. Louis delegation should have the right to select its own representative.

The St. Louisans had first demanded that a place be given Babbler, but Hyde rejected Babbler, announcing he would oppose his selection. The Babbler men tonight were talking of a fight on the convention floor, but this morning Babbler notified them by telephone that he would not permit his name to go before the convention. According to one of the Babbler men, Babbler said that it appeared he could not win without Hyde's support, and that he would not have the place with Hyde's support.

Hyde Forces Rule Convention.
A steady rain, which began about 8 o'clock and continued all morning, decreased the attendance at the convention and, at the hour of opening, there were about a hundred delegates in the galleries, which were filled at the Democratic convention, two weeks ago. The convention was called to order by Chairman Clements of the State Committee, and James A. Puck of New Madrid, two of the most prominent speakers, were taken as a temporary challenge.

There was a prayer by the Rev. C. R. Miller of the Springfield Methodist Church, and an address of welcome by Judge John R. Fordham of the Springfield Court of Appeals. After the announcement of the members of the Committee on Resolutions and Platform, a room full of delegates was taken.

Controlled by a checkup of the delegates that they were in complete control, state administration, under the leadership of Gov. Hyde, last night issued an order that only Hyde men should be given consideration in convention halls, and that it was to be a Hyde convention through and through. Members of the Republican delegation, which will vote next week, are being kept in line.
